Fire Rages in 7-Story Cincinnati Building

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Fire raged out of control through a seven-story downtown building last night, threatening to tumble a 20,000 gallon water tower from the roof of the structure.

First Chief Barney Houston said early today "the situation still isn't in hand."

Houston said the fire apparently started on the second floor of the building shortly after 10 o'clock and "is burning out the interior."

Located on Opera Place, between Race and Elm Streets, the building is hemmed in on both sides by smaller structures.

Firemen climbed to the roofs of other buildings to play water on the blaze.

The chief said it appeared the fire started in a photo-engraving plant which until a week ago had occupied the upper floors of the building.

New York Bus Strike Scheduled This Morning

NEW YORK—(UP)—Drivers on seven bus lines, serving 3,500,000 persons daily, will strike at 9 a. m. today to back up a demand for an increase in bus fares.

Last-minute attempts by the city's Labor Department failed to persuade Michael Quill, head of the CIO Transport Workers, to call off a strike by 8,500 members of the Union on lines serving Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and parts of Westchester County.

The PSC meets today and it was considered likely the fare increase would be authorized.

Korean Insurrection 'Mopped Up'

SEOUL, Korea—(AP)—South Korean Army headquarters today reported fighting on the outskirts of Yosu during the night and said there was a good chance loyal troops had regained the port city where the army rebellion began six days ago.

Even before this report reached Seoul, headquarters had announced the insurrection had been reduced "to the stage of mopping up separated bands of insurgents in the affected area" in Southwest Korea.

Youth Held As Suspect in Double Slaying

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—(UP)—Police last night arrested a former reformatory inmate as a suspect in the brutal slaying of a high school girl and her teen-age escort.

Lyle C. Stenseth, 21, was captured by twenty officers in a residential section after a chase in which shots were fired. He was held on an open charge.

Stenseth was released seven months ago from the Waupun, Wis., Training School for Boys after a term for breaking and entering.

Manila's Broke—And Pay Day Upcoming

MANILA—(AP)—Manila is broke.

The City Treasurer advised Mayor Manuel de la Fuente today the city coffers were so empty that unless the Municipal Board authorized an overdraft of 750,000 pesos ($375,000), all officials and workers won't be paid Saturday.

Tax collections for the first quarter of the fiscal year are running behind by more than $350,000.

Federal Mediators Enter Rome Strike

ROME—(AP)—The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service stepped into the Celanese strike scene yesterday with a request that Company and Union officials meet in Washington in an "attempt to resolve the long-standing dispute and strike."

A telegram from Cyrus S. Ching, Director of the Service, went to top Celanese officials and the Textile Workers of America (CIO) national office inviting them to a meeting at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Notice of the message was received by local Union officers.

Meanwhile, Judge H. E. Nichols, of Floyd Superior Court, issued a temporary restraining order against mass picketing at the Celanese Rome plant, where a strike has been in progress since Aug. 14.

German Pilots Offer

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Four German labor leaders yesterday offered to supply former German war pilots to fly the air lift to Berlin.

Vast Plant Near Record, Agents Say

Revenue agents late yesterday swooped down on an old three-story brick building at 172 Forsyth St., S. W., and seized "one of the largest illicit liquor operations ever turned up in Atlanta."

Officers found four men at work on the still which, they said, had a daily capacity of 300 gallons of whiskey. They arrested one of them, identified as Walter Leonard Walden, but three escaped, sliding down ropes fastened to the rear windows of the third floor.

Raiding officers found 490 gallons of liquor already packaged and ready for shipment and, in addition, two 220-gallon barrels filled.

They also found a large supply of meal and bran for use in making liquor, many bags of coke for running the boiler, and 1,500 empty one-gallon cans.

In all, it was an operation which cost $5,000 to set up officers said.

Those who made the raid were Roy Shields and Bob Sumner, for the State Alcohol Tax Unit, and W. L. Hutto and Glenn Wimbish, for the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit.

The agents identified one of the men who escaped as Raymond Walden, a brother of Leonard Walden. They say that both the Walden brothers had been in trouble before over the liquor laws.

Shields said the agents had been watching the Walden brothers "for some time."

"A week ago, we found they were moving their equipment into the building at 172 Forsyth St., S. W.," he explained. "We let them get it in and all set up and in operation. Then we staged the raid. We estimate they have been operating here for three days, not long enough to pay them for the expense of getting started here."

When the agents made their raid, they said they found Leonard and Raymond Walden in the act of loading empty cans from a big truck parked in an alley at the side of the building. Shields seized Leonard Walden, but Raymond used the elevator to get to the third floor. The other three agents followed by stairway, but got there just in time to see Raymond and two other men escaping through the rear windows by the use of ropes, evidently previously prepared for just such an emergency.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Patrolman Henry Mainwaring reported yesterday that a moonshine still on the top floor of a three-story house gave itself away by setting fire to the rafters.

The fire was discovered by a motorist who summoned firemen. Mainwaring said police would like to talk to the occupant of the apartment as soon as he is located.

INTRUDER SNARED BY LOUD SNORES

Burglars must get in their sleep in the day if they want to be successful in their profession, Atlanta police decided last night.

Patrolmen K. A. Wooster and J. N. Gossett arrested a 23-year-old man listed as Daniel Duncan, of 501 Jones Ave., N. W., on a charge of suspicion of burglary on a complaint by L. E. Talbert, of 310 Pryor St., S. W.

Talbert told the officers he found the suspect sound asleep underneath a bed in his home. In fact, Talbert said, it was the suspect's unusually loud snoring that led to his detection. Talbert told police nothing was missing from his home.

Soviet Veto Berlin Peace Bid in UN

Russia used the big power veto for the twenty-eighth time last night to kill a "neutral" power plan to settle the Berlin dispute.

This left the United Nations Security Council without any further proposals before it, but Argentine Delegate Juan A. Bramuglia, Acting President of the Council, promised to continue his efforts to reconcile the East and West.

WORLD TODAY Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky, after casting his negative vote along with his colleague Dmitri Z. Manuilsky of the Soviet Ukraine, indicated Russia would not lift the Berlin blockade unless the Western Powers met her demands to put Soviet zone currency into use in all Berlin at the same time the blockade is lifted.

"My position is perfectly clear," Vishinsky told newsmen. "There is nothing to add to it."

An authoritative source said Sec. of State Marshall, Foreign Sec. Bevin of Britain and Foreign Minister Schuman of France would meet this morning to decide on the next step. Under the UN charter, the Berlin question cannot be taken before the General Assembly while it is on the Security Council's agenda, unless the Council specifically requests Assembly action.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France and the Benelux countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—met in Paris to discuss how their alliance could be linked in a military treaty relationship with the United States and Canada.

The Security Council will turn today to the Palestine question. Egypt has complained that Israeli troops still are fighting in the Negev despite the Council's cease-fire order last week. The Israeli Government has denied its troops are fighting.

In Bagdad an authoritative source said the leaders of four Arab nations had made decisions at a conference in Amman, Trans-Jordan, which will soon be felt in the Palestine military situation. The conference was attended by representatives of Iraq, Syria, Egypt and Trans-Jordan.

France, while host to the United Nations, continued to be plagued by a costly coal strike led by the Communists. Thirty thousand heavily armed troops and police seized at least 12 struck mines today and occupied approximately half of the nation's key northern coal fields.

Buenos Aires reports said a revolution had broken out against the Government of Paraguay and in Panama, police said they had uncovered a plot to overthrow the 25-day-old regime of President Diaz Arosemena and had arrested ringleaders, including a former president, a former ambassador to Washington and a high police official.

In Athens, King Paul I signed a decree imposing martial law in the Peloponnesus, where guerrila activity has been increasing.

As Reds Hear It

LONDON—(AP)—A Moscow radio commentator said today the CIO and the AFL are supporting President Truman in the presidential election to take votes away from Henry Wallace.

Both Sides 'Sure' Week Before Vote

Victory claims came yesterday from both the Democrats and Republicans, with the Presidential election one week away.

"We are sweeping toward victory," President Truman said in a Democratic campaign speech in Chicago. "Everywhere I go, I hear news and see faces that make me know the tide is rolling for us."

Herbert Brownell, Jr., campaign manager for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, saw things just the other way. Brownell told a news conference in New York that Presidential Nominee Dewey would win a "smashing" victory for the Republicans and predicted the present six-man majority for the GOP in the Senate would "at least" be maintained.

The National Democratic Committee listed Former Gov. Ed Rivers, of Georgia, as a contributor to the Party's Campaign Fund, his gift, $1,500.

President Truman spoke in Chicago's huge Stadium, the scene of many a political rally and convention. He got there as part of a parade that brought out people by the hundreds of thousands, fireworks that would dim a Hollywood spectacle, and an ocean of waving political banners.

William Hortsman, Stadium Manager, estimated more than 24,000 persons had jammed the Stadium to capacity. He said "about 200,000 people were milling around the Stadium during the speech."

All in all, it was the most tremendous demonstration for the President in the whole campaign.

Meanwhile reports of million-dollar-plus spending for the candidates were filed in Washington.

The Democratic National Committee reported that from Jan. 1 to Oct. 22, it received contributions totaling $1,196,827 and spent $1,503,709. The Democrats had a balance of more than $315,000 on

DOWNTOWN STILL RAIDED—Revenue agents raided an abandoned warehouse on Forsyth Street yesterday and halted operations of one of the largest illicit whiskey stills ever found in Atlanta. Wallaceites Lose Legal Skirmish To Get State Candidates on Ballot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Progressive Party of Henry Wallace lost its battle to place names of State candidates on the Georgia ballot.

Georgia law permits the party to list Wallace as the Progressive candidate for President and Sen. Taylor of Idaho for Vice President.

Yesterday's decision by a three-judge Federal Court upheld Georgia's refusal to place the Progressive Party on the ballot on the state level, and said the matter was "purely political."

The opinion came in a test by the Progressives of the State's five percent law, which states a new party must have polled five percent of the votes in the previous general election or present a petition signed by five percent of the registered voters in order to list state candidates on the ballot.

Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook hailed the ruling as a victory for States' Rights.

"This decision again emphasizes the proposition that the Federal courts will not exercise jurisdiction over legal political matters, which are solely within the jurisdiction of the states." Cook said.

In their suit, Progressives contended they had complied with the law by submitting a petition with 80,000 names, or 20,000 more than the required number.

Secretary of State Ben Fortson, Jr., questioned validity of the signatures. He refused to certify Progressive candidates when they failed to swear under oath the names appearing on their petition were qualified registered voters.

The decision, written by Judge Samuel H. Sibley, and concurred in by U. S. District Judges Dozier A. Devane and Frank Scarlett said:

"There is impropriety in a Federal court compelling a high state officer by a mandatory injunction to do his official duty under state laws as the Federal court may think he should."

FAMILY OF NINE 'OUT IN COLD'

Tent-Dwelling Mother Recalls Living in House as 'Pure Heaven'

By MARJORY SMITH

"What was it like, Mommy, when we lived in a house like other folks? I done forgot!"

Tousle-haired, seven-year-old Mary King tipped up a smudged face with that question —and "Momm," slapping at the persistent flies swarming between an outside cookstove and an open tent-flap, answered wearily:

"Child, it was pure heaven!"

"Mommy"—Mrs. John King, of an address the postman doesn't recognize—a tent pitched deep in the woods between the Buford Highway and Peachtree Creek, just off the Old Decatur Road—is "a mighty patient woman."

Since June she has "toted" water from Peachtree Creek, cooked on a three-dollar woodstove, rusted by rains, and tried to "do for" a family of nine living in that cluttered tent.

"I never liked it one bit, gypsying out this way," she admits. "But it was not unendurable through the Summer. What we'uns are going to do this Winter, if we can't find a house, is something else again."

The other reluctant tent-dwellers are her husband, a laborer in a nearby sand pump; a 20-year-old son, Leroy; her married daughter, Mrs. Lydia Mae Ferguson, 21; Mrs. Ferguson's one-year-old baby, William, and four daughters, Bety, 13; Lottie Belle, 11; Mary, seven, and Edna, four.

The family tent is further crowded by two pet dogs, one with a litter of puppies.

The Kings formerly rented a house on Northside Drive but moved "because they were about to tear it down," the harassed mother explained. They tried a season of being tenant farmers near Acworth, but returned to Atlanta when King "was unable to make a crop."

"We've tried and tried to find a house without any luck," Mrs. King said. "We can't pay any audacious rent—$20 a month is high for us. This is the only way we found to lick the housing shortage, but Winter coming on has got us scared."

Stoneybrook: Come In, Get Fire Protection

By HERMAN HANCOCK

Fire protection for approximately 75 homes in the Stoneybrook subdivision southeast of Atlanta is contingent on an agreement by DeKalb officials to annex the area to the City.

Members of the Atlanta Board of Firemasters last night imposed the condition after a delegation of citizens from the affected area urged protection for their properties. M. A. Gresham led the group.

Under the proposal, Scott Candler, DeKalb Commissioner, and the four members of the DeKalb delegation in the 1949 Legislature must sign a written agreement for annexation. Even then, the protection will be extended only until the Legislature has time to act. If the annexation bill fails, the service will be discontinued.

Candler advised the Board that he would pay $50 for each fire if the City would provide temporary service until a fire district can be set up about Jan. 1.

Gresham and others said they asked to be annexed at the 1947 session of the Legislature but that the annexation bill was killed. They also contended that the new fire district would not meet their needs.

During the discussions Councilman William T. Knight, Fire Board Chairman, pointed out that the City and Candler failed to agree on charges under a similar agreement about two years ago.

Ald. Dowse Donaldson suggested that a bond be asked, but Mayor Hartsfield proposed that the service be provided without any charge, with the stipulation

FATHER CONSENTED

Girl, 14, Wed To Boy, 17, In Atlanta

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—(AP) Mrs. Marlene Adams, 14, and her 17-year-old husband, Martin Adams, Jr., were honeymooning in their home city yesterday.

The girl's father, John J. Thompson, confirmed that the couple were married in Atlanta, Saturday. He said they went there by train.

"They just wanted to get married and there didn't seem to be any objection," Thompson said.

The marriage was disclosed yesterday by Fulton County Ordinary Eugene Gunby in Atlanta. He said a girl can be married in Georgia at 14 with parental consent.

Gunby said Thompson's consent was contained in an affidavit. Thompson said Mrs. Martin Adams, mother of the youth, went to Atlanta with the pair.

'INSULT TO INJURY'

Mrs. Smith's Guardian Accused Of Charging Widow for Sanity Test

To add insult to injury, now they want Mrs. Ina Mae Smith to pay the expense of their effort to prove she was insane!

That's what attorneys of the picturesque little widow charged yesterday when they filed proceedings to force L. D. Burns, Jr., court-appointed guardian of Mrs. Smith, to return to her an estimated $10,500—without deductions.

While Mrs. Smith herself moved quietly in his wake, graciously accepting 25-cent lunch money "loans" from her courthouse acquaintances, A. L. Henson, attorney, asked Ordinary Eugene Gunby to rule against the guardian and "to compel him to pay Mrs. Smith her money without deducting $300 for the expenses of the recent litigation."

The appointment of a guardian while Mrs. Smith's sanity case was on appeal was illegal, Henson charges, and the little Bass Street widow "is in no way responsible for expenses incurred in an effort to prove that she was insane."

Meanwhile, Henson announced he had asked the clerk to place on the calendar for trial Mrs. Smith's $50,000 damage suit against Chief Herbert Jenkins. The damage suit, which Henson said he would probably withdraw after a Superior Court jury held Mrs. Smith to be of sound mind, seeks to recover from the police chief the $10,500, which Guardian Burns placed on deposit at a local bank, and damages for alleged physical and mental anguish suffered following her arrest.

The latest Smith case is set for hearing at 10 a. m. today by Ordinary Gunby.

FORTSON WINS FISH JACKPOT

A one-pound bass copped $24 for Secretary of State Ben Fortson.

He and seven others were fishing near Brunswick. They chipped in $3 each for a jackpot to be split among those snaring the first fish, the largest fish, and the one catching the most fish.

Fortson landed the first fish. It was also the only one caught. That made it the biggest, too.

'THE MALE ANIMAL'

Timely Comedy Given Snappy Performance

By PAUL JONES

Within the brief span, theatrically speaking, of three days, The Stage whipped together a bright, entertaining stock company version of "The Male Animal," and the first performance was given last night at the Woman's Club before the season's largest opening night audience.

The scripts to "Male Animal" were misplaced somewhere between Atlanta and New York and The Stage players had only three days in which to build the show. Taking this into consideration, I think their efforts deserve special credit. Regardless of these difficulties, I think the show was very entertaining—something entirely new in the line of legitimate presentation.

Hudson Faussett, who had directed all of The Stage's offerings this season, and who has contributed many choice parts to their success, directed and acted in this show. His role as Wally Meyers, grid star and hero worshiper of the gridiron great, Joe Ferguson (Don Gibson), was the gem of the show. Elsbeth Hofmann, First Lady of The Stage; Bruce Brighton, Laura Lee, Gene Eubanks, Peter Scott, Walter Munroe and Joan Morgan excelled in the acting department also.

"Male Animal" is about a college professor, his wife and an ex-gridiron great who returns for the homecoming game. It turns out that the football giant of yesteryear and the professor's wife were once sweethearts. This introduces several complicating situations which are resolved only in the funny finale.

"Male Animal" will be presented again each night through Saturday at the Woman's Club.

that the required signatures be furnished.

"We sympathize with these good people," Hartsfield said, "but we must protect Atlanta. If Atlanta did not run its fire service to Buckhead, there would be a different story. (He referred to the fact that Buckhead has consistently refused to vote to become a part of Atlanta.)

"We owe a duty to Atlanta. If, as has been reported, DeKalb County officials are ready to approve extension of the City limits to include the area under discussion, we should co-operate. We should furnish the service for nothing if the signatures are provided. We have been too easy in the past and that is the reason we are stomped on by the suburbs."

Hartsfield said that unless some condition is imposed on requests for extension of City services, there will be a rash of new demands which the City cannot meet.

The Board failed to act on a suggestion by Donaldson that City services be restricted to the Atlanta City limits effective January 1. Councilman Ralph Huie, another member of the Board, said the confract between Atlanta and Fulton County for fire services should be reviewed and amended if it is a bad contract. His statement followed a warning by Hartsfield that it would not be easy to discontinue agreements between the two governments.

The Board named Knight, Donaldson and Ald. Lee Evans a committee to investigate the purchase of a new rescue ambulance for the department.

Wonder Minerals
YEAR after year, people rush to mineral springs and spas, to drink and bathe in their miraculous water. Doctors, hospitals, sanatoriums know the value of natural minerals. We are not surprised at the many users who came back to buy more and told us stories of amazing benefit. We recommend it to our friends, relatives, and beloved ones, and to every one wishing for better health."

Also examine your urine. You may see impurities—poisonous waste—coming out of your kidneys, relieving you. And then realize its value.

GEO-MINERAL is not a physic, and does not interfere with the foods in the stomach. It cleans and purifies the intestines thoroughly, relieving gas, toxins, acids, and bloating. After these poisons are out of the system, and the kidneys purified, we begin to feel the arthritis and rheumatism leaving, and Nature starting to complete the recovery.

Court Upholds Ban on 'Hecate'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—By a 4-4 vote, the Supreme Court yesterday upheld a New York ban on publication and distribution of the novel, "Memoirs of Hecate County," by Edmund Wilson.

The book was banned by New York State courts on the ground that parts of it are obscene. The tie vote in the Supreme Court let the decision of the State courts stand. Justice Frankfurter took no part in the case, making an equally divided court possible.

In the New York courts, Doubleday & Company, Inc., publishers of the book, was fined $1,000 for violating a State law providing that the publication, selling, lending, giving away or showing of "any obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent or disgusting book" is a misdemeanor.

Doubleday appealed to the Supreme Court. The case was argued last Thursday, Oct. 21.

HALL HERE FOR NAVY DAY

War Not Early Threat; Later? Yes, Says Admiral

By BILL HARRELL

"War is not imminent."

But athletic, ruddy V. Adm. John Lesslie Hall, Jr., here as Navy Day speaker for a joint Kiwanis-Chamber of Commerce luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today at the Ansley Hotel, drew from 40 years' Navy experience to amend his opinion.

"We must operate, though, on the principle that it could happen tomorrow."

The bemedaled Commandant of the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va., does believe there will be a future war.

Russian situation?

"That's for those higher up than I," the white-haired officer said. "I still operate on the principle they are our allies."

Adm. Hall, who will discuss the Navy's role in warfare in his address today, scorns the idea that the push-butto warfare era has arrived.

Despite the atom bomb, Adm. Hall believes it will be necessary for forces afoot to "slug it out" with the enemy at some point in the next war before the foe's final capitulation.

Bombs and invading forces would never bring the United States to surrender, Adm. Hall said.

"Too much to fight for," he explained. He believes this country would fight to annihilation, if the unforeseen situation arose, before it would wave the white flag.

Possessing much of the physique that made him Annapolis' best all-around athlete in his midshipman days, Adm. Hall doesn't go for proposed changes in the uniforms of enlisted men.

"I got the opinions of men aboard over 3,000 ships in my command at the end of the war," Adm. Hall said. "The uniform has a significance, and they are proud of it. I am, too."

The Admiral has been around. He has a dozen or more battle stars and decorations. They include the Distinguished Service Medal, Legion of Merit and Gold Star in lieu of another, Army Distinguished Service Medal and Gold Star in lieu of another, the top decorations from Britain and France, and many other awards.

Bank Savings Hit New Record Peak

NEW YORK—(AP)—Deposits in the nation's 532 mutual savings banks climbed $45,000,000 to a new high total of $18,727,000,000 during September, the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks announces.

Chinese Swing South of Wall

NANKING, China—(UP)—President Chiang Kai-shek's battered northeastern troops were reported abandoning all Manchuria in line with American suggestions that the Government consolidate its positions south of the Great Wall in China proper.

Informed sources said a general evacuation was planned through the Liaoning peninsula port of Yingkow, captured Sunday by the Nationalists.

The first of between 200,000 and 300,000 Government troops, mostly American-trained and equipped divisions, already have left the Mukden area by rail for the 97-mile trip to Yingkow, informants said.

POLITICS

hand at the start of the year.

The Republican National Committee reported that from Jan. 1 to Oct. 18 it received $1,464,753 and spent $1,706,370. The Republican report did not show money on hand Jan. 1 or the present balance.

President Truman sounded his victory claim in a speech in which he told Chicagoans that:

"To preserve freedom and democracy in this country, we must put control of the Congress back in the hands of the American people. This means we must have a Democratic Congress."

"In 1933," Mr. Truman said, "the Democratic Party drove the money changers out of the temple and brought new life to our democracy. The Republican Party is now making soap-bubble promises to behave better in the future."

In speaking of threats to democracy, Mr. Truman said forces similar to those which backed Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo were "working through the Republican Party."

He said history showed that economic power in the hands of a few men has led to loss of freedom, that such men look for a "front" like the German and Italian dictators, "and it could happen here."

Mr. Truman's Chicago speech was the kick-off for the last, intensive round of campaigning. Tonight he will speak in Cleveland and on following nights, in order, at Boston, New York, Brooklyn and St. Louis.

Gov. Dewey's turn at a Chicago audience comes tonight. Then he will follow much the same trail as Mr. Truman, speaking in Cleveland tomorrow night, in Boston Thursday night and in New York Saturday night.

Albany dispatches told of reports that Dewey already was studying possible Cabinet appointments, assuming he will be elected President next Tuesday.

Another Albany story quoted estimates by New York Republican leaders that Dewey will carry the State (47 electoral votes) by a margin of 400,000 to 700,000.

Democratic spokesmen disputed this, saying Mr. Truman was closing strong and would carry New York. President Roosevelt won the State in 1944 by 316,000 votes, with important help from the American Labor Party and the Liberal Party.

This year Henry A. Wallace and his Progressive Party are carrying the banner of the American Labor Party. Neutral observers think Wallace may poll around 500,000 New York votes. Currently, Wallace is campaigning in New Jersey.

In Jersey City, he called on the United States and Russia to abandon "stiff-necked pride" and quit their "petty jockeying for advantage in an atomic armaments race."

In other political developments:

Pres. William Green of the American Federation of Labor said at Cincinnati that "labor will succeed in a large way in defeating many of the Congressmen and Senators who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act."

J. Strom Thurmond, presidential nominee of the States' Rights Democrats, said at Magnolia, Ark., that Dewey, Truman and Wallace were all backing un-American programs dealing with civil rights. At Little Rock, he said an FEPC law "would be carried out by a national police force already being trained" by President Truman.

Gov. Earl Warren of California, the Republican vice presidential nominee, left Sacramento for a final week's drive to nail down California's 25 electoral votes for the Republicans.

The Republican National Committee said at Washington it knew of detailed evidence of illegal political activity by Federal employees in New Mexico. There,

Atlanta Area High School Press Constitution Guests

More than 100 delegates to the Atlanta Area High School Press Association opened the group's 1948-49 activities last night at a banquet given by The Atlanta Constitution in honor of the high school journalists.

Ralph McGill, editor of The Constitution, was master of ceremonies and Ollie Reeves, Georgia poet laureate and Constitution columnist, was speaker. Guests included Miss Ira Jarrell and Paul West, superintendents of the Atlanta and Fulton County schools, respectively.

Following the banquet, the meeting was turned over to the high school journalists for election of officers and a short business session. Retiring Pres. Pat Thomason, now a freshman at Agnes Scott, presided.

Ted Frankel, of 588 Washington Street, S. W., a Smith High student, was elected President; Mary Jane Long, of 12 Hollywood Drive, West Fulton student, Vice President, and Joe Barnette, of 4 Hopkins Street, S. E., Smith High student, secretary.

The association voted to send three representatives to the meeting of the National Scholastic Press Association in French Lick Springs, Ind., on Nov. 27.

HALLOWE'EN FIAT URGED FOR FUN

The mayor ought to make 'em stay indoors "the night before, the night of, and the night after."

So said Miss Lucy Gartrell, wan, black-garbed resident of 319 Courtland St., N. E., in a formal call at City Hall yesterday. She wants the Mayor to outlaw, by executive fiat, any retaliation they may be planning.

"Tell the Mayor to order everybody to stay at home," she instructed Executive Secretary Ernest Brewer.

Democratic National Chairman McGrath, in a Washington announcement, set Oct. 30 for celebration of "Young Democratic Day."

Tempus Fugits Madly Regardless of Speaker

NEW YORK — (AP) — President Truman was cut off the air last night by two national radio networks because his time ran out before he finished his address.

The President spoke at a Democratic Party rally in Chicago from 10 p. m. to 10:30 p. m., EST.

The Columbia Broadcasting System and the Mutual Broadcasting Company said the Democratic National Committee had purchased a half hour's time on the networks and that when the time was up the President was cut off, although he was still speaking.

The networks said the action was in keeping with their policy in regard to political speeches.

JONESBORO—The on again, off again battle between John C. Hulgan and Howard H. Thornton for the post of Clayton County Commissioner took a new turn yesterday when a Superior Court Judge's ruling made it necessary to place both names on the Democratic ballot for the General Election, Nov. 2.

Ordinary Alan Kemper said it has been more than a quarter of a century since two names for any one office have been placed on the General Election ballot.

Judge Frank Guest, of the Stone Mountain Judicial District, ruled that it was a question for a jury to decide during a hearing on a mandamus petition at Decatur.

Hulgan had sought a writ of mandamus to prove he was the rightful candidate for the Commission post. If the Judge had ruled an absolute mandamus, Thornton's name would be stricken from the ballot.

Atlanta C. of C. Manager Swings at Birmingham

Frank Shaw, manager of the Industrial Bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, let go with another barrage aimed at Birmingham yesterday.

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce claimed last weekend that metropolitan Birmingham is now larger than metropolitan Atlanta.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce's estimate of Atlanta's metropolitan population, however, is more than 565,000, compared with 502,398 for metropolitan Birmingham.

"Atlanta has grown so much in the last 10 years, the only thing we have plenty of is cemetery lots," he said.

Shaw spoke to the luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Rotary Club.

"In the year of 1946 alone," he said, "266 new manufacturing plants were located in the Atlanta area, equal to the same number of new plants located here in the 10-year period prior to the war."

He pointed out that the number of automobiles in the Atlanta area has doubled in the past 20 years and the number of telephones in the area has doubled in the past 10 years.

"Last year we had more than one-half billion dollars in retail business, with more than 260,000 persons gainfully employed in the area," he said.

Noting that this year marks the 100th anniversary of the Atlanta City Government, Shaw said that Atlanta is just entering a period of tremendous industrial expansion, which can be greatly speeded by a genuinely friendly community attitude.

Cat Week's Coming --We Apologize

By BILL BORING

Living as we do in a world that seems to be going to the dogs, you will pardon us for overlooking the approach of National Cat Week.

We hadn't given the event a thought until the accompanying picture landed on our desk and now we feel so ashamed. For how could anyone forget National Cat Week when such cats as Shelia inhabit the earth?

Now, Shelia is a Siamese aristocrat belonging to Rachel Whitmire, of Fairburn Road, and in this photograph she is illustrating the instinctive kindness of the cat. The slick-haired little number she is mothering is a foundling which Shelia picked up in a back alley and took home to look after.

Miss Whitmire informs us that Shelia has dedicated her life to roaming the byways and alleyways, stroking a little kitten's head here, dropping a good meow there and, always, when running across a kitten who has lost its mother, leading it home.

A great heart is Shelia's, a heart that knows no bounds, not even the ocean. We are informed that Shelia is a contributor to the fund which America's cats are raising (through the Cat Fanciers' Association) to buy canned horse meat for the starving cats of Europe.

And so we must not forget that National Cat Week is upcoming, beginning Nov. 6. Some of our readers might be interested, too, in the approach of the Cotton States Cat Club Show in the Municipal Auditorium Nov. 27-28. If you want to enter a cat, contact Mrs. L. P. McGee, Show Secretary, at 330 Lynhurst Dr., S. W.

QUIZ CORNER: Only one county in the United States is named for a woman. Know which one?

ATLANTA VIGNETTE: It was a shiny new automobile and its owner, a woman living in College Park, was preparing to enter it and drive off. A pint-sized neighborhood kid stood admiring the automobile. "Let's see you scratch off," he said to the lady. She learned later that "scratch off" is a term the tot had borrowed from owners of "hot rods" and it means take off. "Hot rods," some may want to know, are stripped-down, souped-up automobiles high school boys are using, in increasing numbers, as replacements for bicycles. "Stripped down" means that the automobile has been shorn of such speed-encumbering items as fenders and radiator covers. "Souped-up" means that the motor has been stepped up in speed.

NOT GUARANTEED—But it is a 50-to-1 bet, believes an Emory University authority in music research, that Stop the Music's mystery tune is "Balm of Gilead," a song popular in the nineteenth century. The tune has been adapted in recent years to collegiate drinking songs.

FYI: Hart County, named for the Revolutionary heroine, Nancy Hart, is believed to be the only county in the nation named for a woman. . . . When members of the Salvation Army die, their obituaries in "War Cry," the Army's journel, are headed, "Promoted to Glory." . . . Hurry up and get well, A. W. Collins, Mrs. Charles E. Sullivan, Mrs. Edwina Buford, Mrs. R. H. Wolcott, Sr., Mrs. J. M. Estes, Mrs. Gordon A. Heath, Mrs. J. Burruss McKee and Barney Cox.

Capone-Men Liberty Plea Before U. S. Court Today

Louis Campagna and Charles Gioe, Chicago associates of the late Al Capone, will continue their efforts in the U. S. Federal Court here today to obtain release from the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary.

The pair was returned to the penitentiary last July, about 11 months after they were paroled. They were convicted on a million-dollar movie extortion plot but served only one-third of 10-year sentences.

The Government claimed they violated their paroles, but both deny the charges and are seeking release on a habeas corpus writ.

Campagna, in addition to being charged with violation of his parole, is accused of withholding from the Parole Board information about settlement of an "$80,000 of $90,000 plus interest" income tax lein against him.

Campagna and his wife both testified yesterday that the money was paid the Government but they do not know who paid it.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood and Asst. Dist. Atty. Harvey Tysinger asked Campagna to explain how anyone could pay "that much money" without Campagna knowing about it. The ex-gambler replied:

"I was in Leavenworth Prison at the time. My attorney paid the money and told me he did not know who paid it. I didn't think it strange because I have some good friends."

NO "KIDNAPING" INTENDED—Mrs. Harold Hoblick, who admittedly took her six-year-old daughter, Catherine Gail Bohler, right, from Goldsmith School yesterday, said she "didn't mean to kidnap her." Mrs. Hoblick, holding her three-year-old daughter, Bonnie, here, called police when she learned her former husband had sworn out a kidnaping warrant against her. Gail said she didn't want to live with her mother.

'ONLY WANTED HER LITTLE WHILE'

'No Kidnap Meant,' Says Atlanta Mother

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Blonde, 22-year-old Mrs. Harold Hoblick, of 432 West Lake Ave., N. W., told police late yesterday she "didn't mean to kidnap" her six-year-old daughter, Catherine Gail Bohler.

Her former husband, the child's father, Walter J. Bohler, of 496 McCason St., N. W., swore out a kidnaping warrant against her, after she took the child from Goldsmith School at noon yesterday over the teacher's protests.

"I only wanted to see her a little while," Mrs. Hoblick insisted, as she held her three-year-old daughter by a second marriage in her lap at police station. "I was going to take her back."

Gail, a tall, curly-haired, blue-eyed child, has lived with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Boss, of 1258 Niles Ave., N. W., since she was there months old. She was placed in the Boss home by her father, who was given her custody by court order.

"I don't want to live with my mother," Gail said flatly, even as she accepted her mother's caresses. "I want to keep on living where I've been living."

Married when she was only 14, Mrs. Hoblick said she left her first husband soon after the birth of her baby "because he wouldn't support me." She said she "signed away" the child's custody since she was "so young and didn't have any way to take care of her."

"Now I want her back," she admitted.

Married a second time four years ago, Mrs. Hoblick has a three-year-old daughter, Bonnie, and said she could make "a nice home" for both children.

She said she took Gail from school to visit with her "because they make it so unpleasant for me when I visit her where she lives."

Mrs. Boss said she had never denied the child's mother the right to see her.

Police Lt. E. O. Mullin, who investigated the case, turned the child over to her father. He allowed Mrs. Hoblick to return to her home, and said no criminal charge would be brought against her.

Reed Would Help Britain Speed Up

LONDON—(AP)—An American businessman suggested yesterday Britain might speed up her industrial production by sending "substantial numbers" of workmen and administrators to study modern U. S. factory methods.

Philip D. Reed, 47-year-old chairman of the Board of General Electric Corp., made the suggestion after the first session of the new Anglo-American Productivity Council.

Reed heads the eight American industrialists and union leaders consulting with their British opposite numbers on methods to boost British industrial output.

2 Burglaries Net $600 Here

About $600 in cash was taken in two downtown burglaries yesterday.

Safecrackers, using a variety of tools, bored their way through a basement floor to enter a King Hardware Company store at 122 Decatur St., N. E., where they removed $470 from the store safe.

P. B. Timsdale, manager of the store, told police the prowlers chopped a hole in the top of the safe after they had been unable to punch the combination. The burglars used an ax, tin snips, chisels and augurs to open the safe. Timsdale said all the tools were picked up by the burglars in the store.

Burglars also entered the offices of the Independent Life and Accident Insurance Company at 182 Ivy St., N. E., taking $139 in cash. Police said the burglars entered the building through a rooftop window.

POLICE BLOTTER

SWEET-TOOTH BURGLAR—A burglar who broke into the Georgia Milk Corporation store at 900 Gordon St., S. W., apparently got what he wanted, but ignored more valuable things, including a small amount of cash. The prowler took only a gallon of peach ice cream.

PERFECT TIMING — Burglars who entered an apartment building at 119 High St., S. W., yesterday knew what they were doing. Police records show that within a space of only 20 minutes, while a janitor was away from the building, the intruders successfully ransacked four apartments, then escaped undetected. Amount of property taken from the apartments has not been determined.

DEEP SLEEPER — Tommie Thompson of 801 Vedado Way, N. E., is a sound sleeper. In fact, according to what he told police yesterday, he sleeps too sound. Thompson said he left his watch, containing 11 diamonds, on a night stand beside his bed Sunday night. When he awaked Monday morning his watch was gone. It was valued at $250.

COUNTY AFFAIRS

By DUPONT WRIGHT

QUICK STARTERS—The timing device on the traffic light at Peachtree and Collier Road, allows north-bound traffic to start eight seconds earlier than southbound traffic—but it was inteded that way, folks! County Police yesterday appealed to southbound drivers not to start up the second they see the northbounders moving but to watch the light. That eight-second edge, Clerk Charlie Withers explained, was allowed to give the northbound group a chance to turn right into Collier Road.

PINLESS MONEY—For want of a pin, a purse was lost. Or so Willie Mae Atkins, Negro, of 192 Brooks Alley, told Judge John S. McClelland yesterday. Willie Mae said she left the room to get a pin and her friend and neighbor, Lula Parker, 44, walked in and out with a pocketbook containing $14 and a wrist watch. Judge McClelland sentenced Lula to six months in jail.

NEW DEPUTY—Sheriff A. B. (Bud) Foster said he may have to put Deputy J. F. Peaslee, of San Quentin, Calif., to work to keep him occupied while he waits out habeas corpus proceedings on Arthur Taylor. The visiting officer came to Atlanta last Thursday, ostensibly to pick up Taylor at the expiration of a federal sentence for armed robbery, allegedly committed while Taylor was in the Army. California wants him for parole violation. Peaslee waited out the week-end to collect his prisoner, only to find in the meantime Taylor had retained a lawyer and was seeking a release on a habeas corpus writ.

GAINESVILLE—Andrew O. Miller, Gainesville insurance man, was appointed a member of the city play and recreational board by the City Commissioners. He will replace Garland Castleberry, who resigned, according to Weldon Smith, city secretary.

Wardlaw Will Aids Charity, Institutions

William C. Wardlaw, Sr., prominent Atlanta banker, who died recently, provided for numerous charitable bequests in his will filed yesterday for probate with Judge V. S. Morgan, Ordinary of DeKalb County.

His bequests included $20,000 to the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, $2,000 to the Atlanta Area Council of Boy Scouts of America, $5,000 to Columbia Theological Seminary and $10,000 to the First Presbyterian Church of Augusta, to perpetuate the connection since 1872 of his family with this church.

An additional five percent of the estate was left to the Platt Wardlaw Fund, a charitable trust established many years ago by the Wardlaw family.

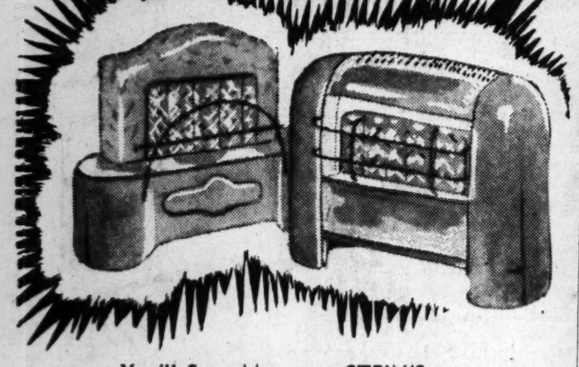

A cash bequest was made to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edna Raine Wardlaw. A portion of the estate was left in trust for the benefit of his five sisters and two grandchildren, and other bequests were made to nieces, nephews, and his three servants. The residue of the estate was left outright to his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Shepard Wardlaw, and son, William C. Wardlaw, Jr., who were named co-executors and co-trustees with the Trust Company of Georgia.

No estimate as to the total value of the estate was available.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Adding Fertilizer May Add to Profits

TUESDAY, OCT. 26, 1948

Suggestion of the day: There is nothing more important than working with the earth, which is the breadbasket for now and for all time to come.

LURE OF SPECULATION

Sometimes a fellow gets to speculating on the subject of increased yields through increased fertilization and the subject becomes so pleasant to him that before he knows it he is putting money in the bank.

Normally, we use fertilier materials about as follows: 400 pounds of limestone, 400 pounds of 20 percent super phosphate, 100 pounds of muriate of potash, and 300 pounds of nitrate of soda, to the acre per year. On an acre of this pasture we would make 300 pounds of beef. The materials cost about $20, delivered to the farm. The income from the beef should be above $60 per acre.

Suppose we hike the nitrogen to 1,000 pounds per acre. The added cost will be $21 per acre, and the total for all fertiliing materials about $41 per acre. The hike in nitrogen should double our yield of grass and increase the protein content considerably. Suppose we made 600 pounds of beef per acre instead of 300 pounds. We would boost our income to $120 per acre.

For $20 worth of fertilizer we grossed $60 per acre and for $41 worth of fertilizer we grossed $120 per acre.

There are a number of "ifs" involved but the idea is well worth considering.

What would happen if we doubled the nitrogen application once more, and gave the pasture 2,000 pounds of nitrate of soda? It might pay us even better. It did in the Tifton and Thomasville tests on Coastal Bermuda hay.

And while you are speculating along with us, why not write Director George King at the Experiment Station, Tifton, Ga., and ask him for the figures. Then compare them with the figures of T. T. Scott, of the River Creek Plantation, Thomasville, Ga. And enclose a self addressed, stamped envelope.

It's dark these mornings at six but that makes it all the more interesting to get together with the other members of the Yellow River Farm family. Try it.

Irish Dockmen End 'Income Tax Strike'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland—(AP)—Two thousand dock workers, on an "income tax strike" since last Thursday, have decided to go back to work today.

The vote came after the Inland Revenue Department promised them time to pay up their back income taxes, due in annual or semi-annual installments. Some are facing tax suits in court.

The men walked out with a demand that the taxes be deducted from their weekly wages. The Department did not say whether this demand will be met.

The strike held about 100 ships in the harbor.

Statewide Appeal Made For Old Oxford Church

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Stimulated by the story appearing in yesterday's Constitution, Georgia Methodists this week are active in raising funds to save the old Methodist Church at Oxford from going on the auction block Saturday.

Under the general chairmanship of Mrs. R. H. Patterson, of Covington, the UDCs, the DARs, the Woman's Club and the Garden Club, all of Newton County, also are aiding in a statewide appeal during this final week before the deadline. Funds are being sought to save the Old Church and preserve it for posterity as one of the State's most historic structures.

Erected and dedicated more than a century ago, the Old Church has been the site of history-making events in Georgia, and the scene of labors that affected Georgia's religious and cultural life The late Bishop Warren Candler urged that it be perpetuated as a Methodist shrine.

The Atlanta Methodist Ministerial Association decided yesterday to take immediate action. Bishop Arthur J. Moore said yesterday he expected official action to be taken on the matter at a meeting of superintendents today.

A Victory for States' Rights

States' rights of the right sort won a victory in the U. S. Court of Appeals yesterday when it was unanimously held that the Federal Court could not intervene in the State election law requiring a political party to have polled 5 percent of the previous vote total or to present a petition bearing the names of 5 percent of the certified voters, to be placed on the ballot.

This bars the Wallace party, which carefully failed to present a petition as provided by law. Indeed, not only was the petition not accurate, but it contained many obvious forgeries, printed "signatures" and many names written in the same handwriting.

The Atlanta Constitution has argued before that the issues of States' rights can be determined only by the Congress and the courts. There is no indication that the Federal courts wish to violate the constitutional rights of the States. There is evidence the courts wish the constitutional rights to be equally applied to all citizens. But it should be kept in mind that the laws involved in the current civil rights controversy have never been presented to Congress and that when they are presented the courts must determine their constitutionality. Neither Harry Truman nor Thomas Dewey can impose any legislation. Congress and the courts determine what laws are constitutional.

'Mother India' and Georgia

Some years ago the world was shocked by a book called "Mother India." It revealed how the Indians, some of them at any rate, married off their girls at very early ages.

Georgians were horrified, too. Some sermons were preached about it and missionaries to India were encouraged to do something about it.

We are reminded of all this by the fact that a 17-year-old boy from New York flew to Georgia with a 14-year-old girl in order to be married. Nowhere else could they find a State which allowed a 14-year-old girl to be married without any period of waiting or without any physical examination of either party. In other words, a 60- or 70-year-old goat may drag a 14-year-old moronic girl to the altar in Georgia, or "the voice that breathed o'er Eden" may be sounded for some lecherous, perverted, diseased middle aged person who has by intimidation or gift, or by unrevealed abduction, brought a 14- or 15-year-old girl to Georgia to be married.

We hope the State Legislature will, when it meets in January, do something about "Mother Georgia."

Science Marches On

Many a father, whose job it is to get out of bed and warm the baby's bottle at 2 and 6 a. m. will hail with delight the latest invention of science—a nonbreakable, collapsible, disposable, sterile nursing bottle. As milk is drawn the bottle collapses. An entirely new nipple was also invented, allowing the baby to nurse naturally. It cannot collapse. After one feeding the bottle is discarded. With an electric warmer and the new bottle and nipple, the problem of the bottle baby is greatly reduced. Fathers may expect more comfort and less pain, provided, of course, that the electric train, skates and other impedimenta of older children are removed before retiring.

'The Beast of Buchenwald'

Gen. Lucius B. Clay has taken, in comparative silence, a tremendous beating from critics who were dismayed, and properly so, at the commutation from life to four-years imprisonment of the sentence of Frau Ilse Koch.

It was she who had been charged with using skin of executed prisoners to make lamp shades and gloves. It was assumed the commutation was one of those hasty actions in which, somehow, an error had been made.

Gen. Clay, in whom the nation has great confidence, has defended the decision with words which must give us pause. He said: "My examination of the record . . . indicates the most serious charges against Frau Koch were based on hearsay and not on factual evidence. For that reason sentence was commuted . . . I therefore acted (and the following capitals are ours) IN THE SINCERE BELIEF THAT IN THE YEARS TO COME THOSE WHO READ THE HISTORY OF THE EVIDENCE WOULD NOT FIND THAT THE SENTENCE CONFORMED TO AMERICAN JUSTICE."

If that is what the evidence demanded then the General has acted with courage and forthrightness. It must be kept in mind by all of us that what we are attempting to do in the trials of war criminals is not to revenge by punishment, but to establish a process of international law under which the guilty may be punished, those guilty of participation in lesser degree accorded justice, and the innocent freed. It is very important for future generations that we act on evidence—and leave clear and unmistakable records to show we painstakingly have sought to present the full evidence and have abided by it.

If we do not our pattern of today may provide some aggressor of the future with the legal curtain behind which to commit all sorts of crimes in the name of justice.

We must leave a record so clear that it may not be perverted.

Warren's Duties Hang in the Balance

WASHINGTON—Conceding a Republican victory in the approaching Presidential election, it is possible to foresee such a close outcome in the battle over Senate control that Gov. Dewey may have to forego plans he is making for giving Gov. Earl Warren, his running mate, a more important assignment in the executive functions of the Government.

Ordinarily the Vice President is called upon to do nothing more than warm a seat on the Senate rostrum, where he sits as the presiding officer. He is not even allowed to vote, except in case of a tie—and herein lies the crux of a situation that may force an abandonment of the plan for utilizing Gov. Warren's administrative capacity in some other field of service.

Because of the vacuum of inactivity that surrounds the office of Vice President, the California Governor was reluctant to accept second place on the GOP ticket, which he turned down cold in 1944. He is said to have done so this time only on assurance from Gov. Dewey that he would be given executive responsibilities over and above his duties as the presiding officer of the Senate.

But a situation is threatening which may tie him down to his prospective job closer than any Vice President has had to contend with in many years. It revolves around the possibility that the elections may result in a dead heat between Democrats and Republicans as regards Senate control.

Most observers are now agreed that it looks like a tossup as to which party will capture the Senate. The Democrats need a net gain of four seats to take over control, and the indications are that they are in a fair way to get them from contests in West Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Minnesota and Wyoming. Offsetting these likely gains, however, are two States—New Mexico and Montana—where they might lose seats.

If it should work out that way, the division in the Senate would be exactly equal as between Democrats and Republicans. And in that case Gov. Warren's position, as Vice President, would take on far greater importance in providing the balance of control.

Under those circumstances he would, in fact, become the ninety-seventh Senator. As such he would be called upon any number of times to cast the deciding vote on crucial issues of the day. The Republicans would have to rely on him practically at all times to provide the majority to put their program through.

The situation would be modified only to a minor degree even though the Republicans retained Senate control by a narrow margin of, say, two votes. That would be true because absentees and defections usually count for two votes or more on nearly every roll call.

In other words, the Senate lineup promises to be so tight that the new Vice President will be put to the necessity of sitting on his job as closely as a hen does on a setting of eggs. He would not be free to wander away while the Chamber is in session, as others have done in the past, confident that his vote would not be needed to break a deadlock.

He would not be permitted to take an afternoon nap in his hotel room some distance from the Capitol, as former Vice President Charles G. Dawes did on that fateful day when, had he been present in the Senate, he could have saved from defeat the nomination of an attorney general in President Coolidge's Cabinet.

The need for the Vice President to be at hand and to pay close attention to his duties will, if it works out this way, be such that little time will remain for him to take on outside responsibilities. It could easily be that he will emerge as the key figure of Republican forces in Congress, since the entire program of the new Administration might conceivably hinge on a single Senate vote.

And so the prospects being what they are, Gov. Warren may see his dreams of taking on added executive functions going out of the window by the outcome of the battle over the Senate. Instead, he may find it necessary to sit through more wearying hours of debate than any holder of the office has in the memory of those living.

Let's Welcome The Growing Pains

Time was when the tourists came down to look at our magnolias; to sigh over our camellias; to walk softly amid the ghosts of our old ante-bellum mansions which the owners showed for cash, calling them "pilgrimages" to mask the exacting commercialism of the tours.

Now, they come to see our eroded fields; to develop statistics on tenancy; the incidence of various diseases, our literacy quota, and our diets.

Even our own engineers tell us that the old mansions are really uncomfortable and costly. They can, by lowering ceilings and pumping in great amounts of rockwool, make it possible to heat one in terms of the ordinary budget. They must have been uncomfortable on cold days in the so-called good old days when there were plenty of hands to tote in logs and to keep the logs poked up.

All this has been good for us, even though it often tastes worse than the sulphur and molasses which used to be given to one and all in the Springtime to thin the blood and rid it of the Winter vapors and miasmas.

There is great joy in and around Natchez, where the pathetic pilgrimages were centered and where the patient old homes received their annual horde of the curious, looking at these museum pieces, as at a new kind of pyramid or a variation of the Navaho cliff dwellers, with their pottery, their silver work, wood carving and rugs.

Oil has been found near Natchez and the town has shed its genteel air of poverty and soon the pilgrimages will be no more and the old houses will take on a new air of pride. Maybe, even, they will finish that queer one where the old paint buckets and the ancient brushes remain, just as they were left on that sad day when war called and the workers went away to fight.

Trends The South is in transition as our people continue to leave the soil; as the white and colored displaced persons and high school graduates continue to migrate; as the new industry comes and its trend continues to indicate that in the years ahead the migration will slow down and our best young people will be able to stay at home. The industry is coming. It isn't coming fast enough, but it will. The period of transition is going to be an uneasy one, full of wild and heated reports; filled with tensions and with some flares of violence. But nothing is going to stop the trend.

Everything reflects it. The States in the South that are losing population; those that are barely holding on; those with a higher average income but whose troubles are magnified in that their sounder raw material resources are about used up and industry is not coming fast enough to take up the slack; the increase in city population; the troubles of towns with factory jobs for women and not enough for men; the ceaseless hunt for places to live. All these factors and more testify to the fact of transition.

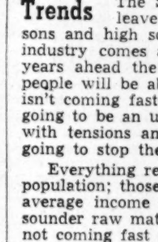

Politics So, for that matter, do our politics. The Dixiecrats are the beginning of the death rattle of a way of politics. The Dixiecrats will gasp and rattle on for another two or four years, but they, too, can hardly fail to see they are an impossible paradox.

They cannot go on expecting to defend the Tenth Amendment to the Constitution with a fine frenzy and ignore the other nine.

They cannot speak of democracy and of the rights of people, and refuse to allow Truman's name to be on the ballot in their States so that the people may exercise the right to vote for whom they please—another guarantee of the Constitution which the Dixiecrats, interested in only one paragraph of the Constitution, ignore.

The Dixiecrats are themselves one with the old houses at Natchez; the fireplace to heat a great room with high ceilings; the julep stirred with the silver spoon and songs from "the quarters."

We are in a period of change and we will suffer through it, but pretty soon we will begin to see what a light there is ahead in the way of better living and more prosperity and schools and medical care and we will wonder why we ever clung so fast to much that was a part of the dead-and-gone-and-buried past which, however beautiful and sentimental, was past and gone.

The 'Good Old Days' Weren't Comfortable

Reading, the other day, about a centenary celebration of a town in the West. A feature of the affair was that all the local citizens dressed in the costumes of 100 years ago, when their town was founded. Furthermore, the men had all abstained from shaving for weeks in advance of the celebration, so that they all wore beards or, at least, those long, flowing mustaches which, once upon a time, were the pride of every man about the town.

And, in imagination, I pictured a similar celebration in Atlanta and wondered how the fashions of 1848 would feel if we had to wear them, even for a few days, in 1948. Promptly the conviction came that, in many respects, living must have been a durn uncomfortable state of being in those sometimes called "good old days," of so long ago.

Imagine, if you can, strolling down town on a hot July day attired in heavy woolen homespun. With a flowing beard to keep the breeze away from the Adam's Apple and with a wide-brimmed wool hat to weight down the brow.

Imagine high boots and the underwear they wore before BVD meant anything but three unconnected letters of the alphabet.

Chin Dandruff? I have always wondered how much difficulty was involved in keeping the chin and cheeks clean when covered with a thick and luxuriant beard? Hard to wash, thoroughly, I should imagine. Did the bearded pioneers suffer from dandruff on the chin, as well as on the noggin? I am quite sure a beard was an itchy appendage for the pioneers who spent many weeks pioneering across the continent, via covered wagon, when water was so scarce it had to be conserved, drop by drop, for drinking purposes only.

Odorous Mustache Once upon a time, just after I had lost quite a few teeth by dental extraction, with the result my mouth had a noticeable sunk-in appearance, I tried growing a mustache—the idea being to shield the mouth until dentures could bring it back to normal form.

It so happens I smoke, fairly constantly. And the odor of stale tobacco smoke clung in that mustache, small as it was, and there was nothing I could do about it. All the washing couldn't get rid of that smell and I hated it. The odor of fresh tobacco, grand; the stench of stale tobacco smoke—pfui!

So, without further delay, I resumed shaving the upper lip and forgot all about the missing teeth and the sunken mouth.

I always wonder, since then, if mustache wearers who smoke are not afflicted with the same irritation. And can't understand, if so, why they persist in remaining mustacheoed.

Pity the Women Reverting, though, to the original theme of the styles of the long ago, our deepest pity must be reserved for the women, despite the suffering the men must have undergone.

Imagine wearing heavy dresses that swept the ground, petticoats in multitudinous billows. High button shoes with pointed toes that must have rubbed corns on every female foot. And the heavy, steel-ribbed corsets, that compressed the soft forms into abnormal shape and forced the wearers into all the agonies that result from misplaced interior arrangements.

We may be thankful, at least, that foolish as fashion dictators often seem, they have acquired some mercy through the years. The high, starched collar is almost as passe as the pterodactyl and the hourglass shape no longer cuts the lives—as well as the figures—of our women in two.

A Stupid Way To Do Business

This ballot that we are called upon to vote at the general election is 17 inches wide and 34 inches long and just as complicated as it is possible to make it. An intelligent man will have trouble making it out, and what is a fellow like me going to do with it? We are called upon to vote for nearly every Judge and every Solicitor in the State, and I do not know a single one of them except our local Judge and Solicitor. It just does not make sense

Then there are 17 amendments to the Constitution and not a single one of them concerns my business and I do not know what they are all about. And we have a brand-new Constitution that we are called upon to amend 17 times at the first general election. What stupidity! It will cost the counties of the State an average of around $200 or more to print the ballots, beside the other expenses of holding the elections. Fully half of the amount could have been saved if we had local self-government. The printing of the ballots alone will cost near $50,000. Other printing and the expense of holding the elections will amount to that much or more.

If Paul Green doesn't promise me, between now and election time that he will support a legislative program favoring home rule and local self-government, I'll be dadblamed if I don't scratch his name when I go to vote.

A Boost for Vegetarianism?

Thus does higher education equip one to cope with such problems as the high cost of T-bones.

I knew the meat situation was pretty bad, but somehow it never occurred to me that the answer to the problem might lie in the grasshopperburger.

In fact, this latest penchant of undergrads will doubtless confirm the average citizen's suspicion that the typical collegian is a four-letter man, F-O-O-L.

I am interested, incidentally, to note that it is the young lady students who are evidencing the greatest appetite for grasshoppers. In my day coeds hungered, on dates at any rate, only after sirloin.

The world moves slowly but it does progress. I can remember way back when college students ate silly things like goldfish.

Progress in Education

Editor Constitution: I wish to commend you on your very timely article in Wednesday's paper entitled. "An Honest Report on Schools."

I believe the Negro citizens are aware of the fact that accumulated errors of many years cannot be swept away over night.

Through your articles, the help of the Board of Education and the Superintendent, Miss Ira Jarrell, progress will continue to be made for the Negro schools in Atlanta and spread abroad. Again I wish to say your article deserves praise.

(MISS) BETTY JEAN BEVERLY.

UN The Only Way

Editor Constitution: Through the work of the United Nations we are offered the chance, the breathing space and last gasp of life under threat of atomic warfare, to work for what all peoples, the globe over, earnestly want for themselves—the essentials of peace, human dignity, living space and freedom. When individuals in all nations consider carefully what to them is essential they will realize that the human race is alike in one paramount characteristic, no matter what the color, religion or type of societal culture the individual human beings which make up our race share, or differ in. This characteristic of prime importance seems to be the hope and justifiable expectancy of living with appropriate dignity and decency, with the respect and co-operation of other individuals. When these basic rights are interfered with by any means, whether by power politics, inner strife, or local restrictions on freely responsible citizenship, the world community suffers quite as much as the individuals affected.

Therefore it is highly important for each of us to work hard to protect, conserve, and extend the rights to which all humans are natively born. The United Nations is the way in which we can accomplish the beginning of this large aim, on the international level. Let us work for UN.

As Americans with an historical background of experimentation with the principle of government of widely different cultures and economic interests, by federal sharing of responsibility for individual and social being with well many member sovereignties (our States), we would seem to be in a privileged position to offer encouragement and leadership to any world government.

Atlanta. RUTH DAVIDSON.

4-H Coverage

Editor Constitution: Just a note to thank you for the splendid coverage by Miss Shirley Zeigler of the 4-H Club Congress. I, as a member of the State 4-H Club Congress enjoyed it immensely and was well pleased with it.

Thank you so much. LOUISE HEWIN,

Stop Bullying

Editor Constitution: If I understand correctly, the Georgia State Employment Offices are supposed to be established and maintained for the benefit of the citizens of the State. I understand that the employees of these offices are paid by the State, and that the State Commissioner of Labor is elected by the people. If this is true I wonder why those applying for unemployment benefits at these offices are met with evasive and hostile statements by employees of these offices. Often the applicant is deliberately led to make statements that will disqualify his claim. There are indications that the present Commissioner of Labor demands this of employees in these offices.

I have never applied for unemployment compensation, but I have many friends who have made application in such places as Dalton, Rome, Calhoun, Cedartown, Dallas and LaFayette. These friends tell me that every effort was made by employees to trick them into disqualifying themselves. If this is true these offices should be cleaned out and staffed with people who have a little sympathy and interest in Georgia's unemployed citizens. If the present Commissioner of Labor is responsible for these conditions, and it appears that he is, then he should be removed from office. JAMES ROBERTSON.

Deluged

Editor Constitution: When you very kindly printed our request for pen friends in your Constitution we received so many letters that we have not been able to answer them all ourselves, and so that no one will be disappointed we are passing some on to others. We hope all will understand, and we thank everyone who wrote for their interesting letters. From them we have learned a lot more about America and your State "way down South." So we thank you for making it possible for us to have these new friends.

Georgia for Thurmond?

Editor Constitution: I see that Harry Truman and some of the New Deal Democrats are saying that the Republicans are the cause of high prices, and then at the same time, they say if we elect a Republican President everything will go down. Their talk just don't make sense. Truman is begging the Southern voters to vote for him. Does he think the Southern voters' memory is so short they have forgotten the way the South was treated at the Democratic Convention?

I think all true Southerners ought to vote for Thurmond. If not for Thurmond, then vote for Dewey. Don't vote for the man who turned his back on the South at the Convention, Harry Truman. If all Georgia voters will vote like they say they are, Georgia will go for Thurmond like it should. G. W. MADDOX.
Buford.

Gambling Zoos

Editor Constitution: The inclosed clipping (about a gambling joint) is from this week's issue of Jeff Davis Ledger.

The joint in question is known as a zoo, and is located in the adjoining county of Telfair, located near Lumber City at the Sugar Creek Bridge between Lumber City and McRae.

It appears that the authorities in Telfair will lend no assistance to the recovery of the victims' money.

Complaints come to this county, but the officers have no authority to act.

One was jailed in this county recently on another charge and an ex-sheriff, of Baxley, Ga., stood his bail.

If you know of anyone who can and will act, it should be attended to, as this is a damnable thing, and certainly causes a bad spirit and is a poor advertisement for Georgia, as most of the victims are tourists passing through.

A Loud Cheer for Dad Howe

Well, by golly, the old man made it.

Old Dad Howe, I mean, the little guy with the whiskers who has set himself up as the arch foe of the Old Man With the Scythe.

The Associated Press recorded his arrival in Los Angeles the other day. They said he got in there looking pretty well, and seemingly feeling just fine. He had pedaled his bicycle 2,837 miles, all the way from Savannah. It was his second attempt. Readers of this column may remember his first try a couple of years ago. We sort of followed him step by step along the route that time. He started off walking, pulling a little wagon, as I remember, and he had a pretty rough time of it. He fell sick in Louisiana, and almost died. He had a terrific operation of some kind, and the doctors thought he was through. But the old man got up and stood up on his hind legs and made it back to Atlanta.

When he got here it was the dead of Winter, so we persuaded the old man to stay awhile until he got his strength back. He had a little money in his pocket—he had sold newspapers in New Orleans a while, trying to get a stake to carry him the rest of the way across, and the hospital expenses had been taken care of—so he stayed around town for about a week, resting up.

Then we put him on an airplane and sent him home to Savannah, figuring that to ride back in style that way would take some of the sting out of the sense of defeat he felt at not having made it across the country.

And then, bless goodness, the old man decided to try it again—at the age of 93. I wrote him and told him not to be foolish. I told him to stay where he was and take it easy. He had friends down there who could care for him and he was too old to risk such a trip again. I reminded him of how he almost died on the road in Louisiana the first time.

But he didn't pay me any attention. I had a postcard from him saying much obliged, but he had his heart set on going, and he was on his way. I heard from him once or twice and tried to get in touch with him by writing him, general delivery, in the towns I knew he would pass through en route. But the letters came back unclaimed.

And now the word comes through he made it—a little old guy no bigger than a peanut, but with the kind of determined heart in him that the old pioneers had, who made it, too, in the covered wagons, against heat and dust and thirst and Indians.

Somebody wrote a poem once that contained this line:

"The old men know when an old man dies."

I think maybe the old men know it too, when an old man defies time and sickness and everything else that would hold him back, and does something pretty big, even if it is pretty foolish.

I think a lot of old men, reading about Old Dad Howe peddling his bicycle across the United States at the age of 93, will feel pretty proud of him.

I know I am.

You Can Listen for a Big, Long Yowl

WASHINGTON—Coming up is arm-waving confusion unconfined, plus sputtering, in that citadel of dignity, the Senate of the U. S. A. Nobody knows from nothing at this writing and the parliamentary experts do not fear the worst, simply because each possibility seems worse than the last one. Listen: On Jan. 3 the Senate reconvenes, with 33 Republicans and 31 Democrats on the job. Their first task will be swearing in the newly elected members to bring the total up to 96. The chances seem to be excellent that they will divide up evenly: 48 Republicans and 48 Democrats. Wowie!

The Republicans will maneuver to keep those Democrats from being seated and, of course, vice versa. The prize to the winner is all-important: control of the Senate. The newcomers will be called up alphabetically: Clinton Anderson, of New Mexico, if elected, will be victim No. 1.

The Republicans can and doubtless will debate for weeks his right to a seat. Why, you may ask, does not the Vice President cast his ballot and break the deadlock? There won't be any Vice President. Not before Jan. 20, there won't. Until he's sworn in, then, the Senate may be one big yowl.

Another possibility is that the Republicans will have a majority of about two. If that comes to pass they'll swear in all the new members in a hurry. But the Senate is a continuing body. What it doesn't get around to one session it takes up the next. And the first order of business on Jan. 3 is a not-so-mysterious item called cloture.

This means changing the rules of the club so that a long-winded gent like the late Huey Long can be shut up eventually and his colleagues can vote on whatever bill is before 'em. The Southerners in particular are bitterly opposed to any scheme which would end their right to talk any time at any length on any subject.

So they plan—and the plans are being perfected even as you read this—to start a filibuster at once. Their idea is to talk to death the cloture law making that kind of thing illegal. This may be poetic justice: I don't know. But it's going to be rough on the new Vice President when finally he sits down in his special de luxe soft chair. He may be wise to order himself a harder seat.

The VP may be dear Alben Barkley or (more likely, according to all the polls) big Earl Warren. Whichever of these gentlemen gets the job, he'll have to stay put all the time. And also awake. He dare not doze, as have so many previous Vice Presidents, in the down-cushioned, soporific chair. The division between the Reps. and the Dems., no matter what, will be too close for the Vice President to take a chance on missing his vote.

There'll be no leisurely lunches downtown for him, while his colleagues drone on about the state of the nation. If he has any such ideas I can remind him of the time Charlie Dawes, the Vice President with the underslung pipe, was eating his oysters on the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue at the Willard Hotel.

The boys on the Hill unexpectedly reached a vote on a Republican bill; when Dawes learned of this he took a wild ride up the avenue, but arrived too late. The vote was a tie, and so, under the rules, the Republicans lost. A strange place, the Senate. I can hardly wait until the fateful day.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Harry Hopkins' Plan for Slave Labor

NEW YORK—Lest we forget, I present herewith the outline of a system of slave labor which Harry Hopkins published in the American Magazine for December, 1942. I have referred to this several times but I doubt that I have ever brought out the true Hitlerian ruthlessness and contempt for people which Hopkins threatened to impose on the American people. The fact that he suffered a long time from cancer, which finally killed him, and doggedly carried on his malevolent schemes until he was frustrated by victory in the field, has been offered as an endearing fact. It should not endear him to any citizen who has the feeling of and for liberty. It only made Hopkins the more dangerous because he could endure agony to try to convert this nation into a reasonable imitation of Hitler's Germany or Stalin's Russia.

He wrote his plan when he was living in the White House, undoubtedly with the approval of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who would have thrown him out if he had disapproved. The fact that he did not even comment on Hopkins' plot showed that he rather liked it. This was further shown later when Eleanor wrote that they had been having one of those "interesting discussions" at the White House and that she, personally, thought it would be fine if the "Government" would tell us all, "women as well as men," what jobs we must take at what pay and where we must go to work at those jobs, to win the war. Her gang was "the Government," of course.

Recently Robert E. Sherwood has edited the "private papers" of Harry Hopkins which are now issued as another book of the formidable shelf of memoirs and body-snatchings which are compulsory reading for anyone who would like to know what these audacious schemers were plotting against the people of the United States. Sherwood has written some plays, ranging in quality from good to not so good, and Roosevelt took him into the White House as one of his phrase-makers. On the record of Roosevelt's speeches as compared with Winston Churchill's or even with the uncouth frenzies of the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, who has been gagged these last 10 years in a historic political suppression, Sherwood must be a very drab operator in the bon mot business. However, he came to regard himself as a sort of professor at a desk grading the great ones by his own arbitrary standards which he doesn't bother to spread before us.

In this article, published in 1942, Harry Hopkins, per ghost, wrote: "We are mobilizing our fighting men. Now we must mobilize our civilians. (Mobilize means form into battalions, capable of moving quickly.) A selective service for war work at home must distribute our man—and women—power fairly, firmly and efficiently.

"No American anywhere should be allowed to decide for himself how much he will do or how much he will give. (Slavery first; then confiscation of savings and property.—Ed.)

"We must fight total war under Government direction with no special favors (such as the airplane trip for Elliott Roosevelt's dog, Blaze; or Eleanor's frantic career of flights from the far Pacific to London and the political motor parades for her at home, using thousands of gallons of gas.—Ed.) We must throw into the war effort every able-bodied man and woman. (Note that both Hopkins and Eleanor emphasized their determination to put women into the service of the state under orders. That is the way to break up the family, to dissipate the morals of normally decent girls and women and accomplish total moral degeneracy. Send the father to Oregon. The mother to a camp outside Savannah. Send the daughter to work for some underworld gauleiter of the Ed Kelly Chapter of the Party of Humanity in Chicago.—Ed.) Consider that in relation to this line: "Too many Americans have remarked: 'Well, it doesn't mean me. I'm a stenographer and too important to my firm.' Or 'I can't cross the continent to work in a shipyard.'"

Let us assume that your daughter is a stenographer in New York. Hopkins was planning to deport her by force if necessary to a shipyard in Portland. Similarly he was planning to make it impossible for you to keep your home intact. He was going to send you as far as he could and your wife as far as he could in another direction.

And then he wrote, this impudent, leering parasite:

"It does mean you, for it isn't just talk and it won't blow over . . . when (the people) through their chosen representatives, enact the laws that are necessary, workers will go to the spots where they are needed most. No man or woman without good cause will leave a war job for one that pays more. None will strike. Through forced savings and taxes, spending will be limited. The Army or Navy should decide whether a boy (over 18) should stay in college to be trained for war or be inducted at once. Women should remain in college only while they are being trained for the war effort. I see no reason for wasting time on such nonessentials as Chaucer and Latin. A diploma can only be framed and hung on a wall.

"We must use our womanpower to an extent undreamed of. I believe women can man antiaircraft guns in all our coastal cities. Millions (of women) not now in jobs must go to work. Women who cannot work in factories and shops will care for children whose mothers are in munition plants. Where there are housing shortages workers (without regard for morals, character, manners or race.—Ed.) will be billeted in homes.

"People with spare rooms will have to rent them. Many a social leader with a big house will become a boarding house keeper. Nurses who have married and retired must resume their profession. The first move in this total war effort is to draft boys of 18. The second move should be to register all women. In every community boards similar to the ration boards and draft boards will be required to select workers and direct them. They will have a tremendous responsibility over the daily lives of every person in the community. They will have to arrange for girls to move from a college in Northampton, Mass., to a nurses' training school in San Diego; transfer a doctor from New York to a doctorless community in Kansas."

Yes? Which doctor? The New Dealer or the avowed anti-Communist opponent of the Roosevelt-Hopkins regime and the New Deal? Do you have to ask?

Our scientists get radio messages from the Aurora Borealis with no ice boxes attached.

These timeless signals originate in space and their precise significance has not been deciphered. So far it is a quiz in chaos.

But our academic lads will figure out the way to launch a home-and-home tournament with the men on Mars. They got distinct pulsations from the infinite. It's a post-graduate course in rapping on tables.

Might not be a bad idea to straighten out this world before we take on another.

THE QUESTION:

Do you believe in "quickie" divorces?

THE ANSWERS:

MRS. C. W. MONTGOMERY, 2247 Boulevad Dr., S. E., housewife — I guess not. I think, at least, you ought to have time to think it over. I think if two people would think a long time to get married, I think they ought to think as long about getting divorced at all. I think I'm just prejudiced about divorce in general.

W. R. WELTCH, 691 Juniper St., assistant cashier, insurance company — In quickie divorce? I'd say no. Well, I just think that's something that people should give a bit of thought to before taking any drastic action. My prescription for a happier home would be that two people co-operate and work thoroughly on the 50-50 basis. You caught me so quick, I could hardly give it much thought. Marriage is something that two people should enter into with a lifetime bargain.

SAM MASSELL, JR., 1125 St. Charles Pl., N. E., law student—No, I don't. Actually, if we did not have "quickie" marriages, we wouldn't have as many quick divorces. You want me to appear wise to the public, don't you. I'm studying law — I'll have to say something brilliant. You've already had the question about uniform divorce laws. I do feel that a uniform divorce law would improve the divorce situation in Georgia. However, I still feel that the root of the evil is the "minute marriage." You can tell I'm a bachelor from what I've said!

MRS. C. P. GROVES, 854 Kings Court, N. E., housewife — No. I don't believe I do. I think, in many cases, the parties concerned would probably change their minds if they talked things over together. You might also consider the other side of it—that in many cases, the fast divorce is the best policy—where mental illness from incompatibility is involved. That makes me favor both, doesn't it?

ROBERT QUILLEN

Nature Hatches Ideas

In one of his articles written for "Guideposts," Dr. Norman Vincent Peale says that Stevenson composed his stories by first blocking out the plot and then "leaving the details to his 'Brownies,' the little people who worked during sleep in the hidden places of his mind."

That whimsical way of saying it didn't make it less true. On one occasion, Stevenson questioned the accuracy of another author who said he usually sat down at his desk and began writing without any previous consideration of what he meant to say.

THE AUTHOR undoubtedly meant to tell the truth, but apparently he didn't understand his own mental processes.

There are times when writing can be done that way. Bromfield says anybody can write good stuff if he has something to say and will "write it while he's hot."

In "times that try men's souls," an ardent partisan writing in white heat may do a great piece of work without previous planning or pause for reflection. Many have done it. But every one of them had the thing blazing in his heart; he had only to set down the words that filled his mind to overflowing.

Stevenson called his method unconscious thinking. If he composed his essays and critical articles in that way, subconscious thinking would be a more accurate definition.

The things that he had learned and the opinions he had formed were stored in his subconscious mind, as if impressed on phonograph records and filed away for use when needed. When he chose his subject and then dismissed it from his mind to let his "Brownies" work on it, his subconscious mind assembled all the material it had relative to the subject and fitted it together so that one detail supported another, and then presented the finished job to him when he was ready for it.

STATESMEN, businessmen and inventors have learned that all trained minds work that way. They work best when your hands are busy at some job that requires no thinking—chopping wood, for example. You set the eggs and nature does the hatching.

There is a mysterious thing called inspiration, but usually it is only your mind secretly making use of all the facts and ideas you have stored up and "forgotten."

WALTON TRIBUNE

Democrats Are in Trouble

Democrats throughout the State are concerned about the election for President, which occurs Nov. 2. Men and women who have never voted anything but the straight Democratic ticket are troubled because Truman, the Democratic nominee, is sponsoring a so-called "civil rights" proposal which is utterly repugnant to them.

On the other hand, a great many of them do not want to support a Republican, as the Republican Party has never been friendly to the South, and while they are partially sympathetic with the States' Rights ideals, they don't wish to leave the Democratic Party and don't believe that the States' Rights movement will seriously affect the result.

FOR THAT REASON, numerous voters who despise Truman will vote for him, in the well founded belief that he will be overwhelmingly defeated anyway, and in the knowledge that the Republicans are also pledged to "civil rights."

The Tribune repeats what it said several weeks ago, that it would be well for several Southern States to go Republican, not only to register a protest, but to show Northern Democrats that we are tired of being pushed around.

Furthermore, a two-party system is necessary to assure the South a fair deal in national affairs, and this seems to be an opportune time to launch it, though personally we can't bring ourself to help it along.

SO, AS FOR US, we will hold our nose and vote for Truman, though we seriously doubt that he will obtain a majority of the votes cast in Georgia Nov. 2, in which event the election of electors will be thrown into the Legislature, which in all probability will not be favorable to Truman.

We admit that this is queer reasoning, but those who follow it can at least have the satisfaction of knowing that they have remained in the Democratic Party, which, we seriously trust, may return to its former principles and ideals.

Otherwise, four years from now there will be no Democratic Party to which we can claim allegiance.

OLLIE REEVES

"In suspending sentence, judge lectures woman found guilty of neglecting children . . . 'women must remember it is their inherent duty to preserve the home.'"—News item.

Amidst the troubles time has brought . . . there stands one sweet, consoling thought . . . although the wickedness of man . . . has plagued us since the world began . . . some remnants of the good remain . . . and while the devil seems to reign . . . we can't deny much that is good . . . is symbolized by Motherhood.

In every age, men still demand . . . that they shall have the upperhand . . . for fragile womankind, they say . . . is ever wrought of weaker clay . . . and yet she stands, a sentry brave . . . who guards from cradle to the grave . . . in song and story much extolled . . . by all the weathered bards of old . . . so well reported by The Best . . . that we shall let the subject rest.

Except for one fact we must face . . . that women must stay in their place . . . and watch the home, for if THEY fail . . . there won't be room for US BOTH, in jail.

ALTAR STAIRS — By John Marvin Rast

Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.—I Thessalonians 5:5.

Now by spraying foods with streams of high-energy electrons germs are killed in them, making possible undreamed preservation and sterilization.

The tests conducted use X-rays or cathode rays of 2,000,000-volt intensity focused on the food during a continuous process.

In the spirit realm no less marvelous is the purifying and sustaining influence of the Light of Life.

To be cleansed the process must also be continuous. That is what is implied in the Master's entreaty, "Pray without ceasing."

Not posture of body is here required, only posture of soul—the will to persevere in the divine presence.

You men who have never made a will—you men who are throwing the future of your family on your wife after your death—you good women who courageously state that you are willing to undertake the responsibility of handling the estate which your husband may leave—I wish that you could have heard that pitiful story as she told it to me.

Incompetent? No. Careless? No. Lacking in intelligence? No. Just a fine woman whose life had been devoted to making a comfortable home and raising a real family. Then Bill died, leaving things somewhat messed up—mortgages on property—loans on insurance—half interest in a business—a large farm—and a will which he wrote himself and which promptly tied up the whole estate until his youngest child came of legal age.

Friends and relatives rushed to help . . . with what result? Free advice, worth exactly what it cost . . . No! Free advice that cost thousands of dollars.

There she sat—a forlorn, solitary figure in black . . . would we help her to straighten it all out and save what we could? . . . it was all she had for her children.

Capable, experienced Trust Officers took those tangled skeins . . . the little estate is a snug package now—not what it might have been had her husband turned it over to the bank at the start—but what remains is safe.

Selling Pressure on Steel Hits Stock Market Prices

NEW YORK—(AP)—Steels were under selling pressure Monday in a generally lower stock market. Prices throughout the list were off by fractions to around 2 points, and steel shares as a group showed the widest decline. Motors were active but held fairly steady as a whole. Rails eased without much activity. Chemicals and aircraft turned mixed while oils and utilities were down.

A number of individual shares, influenced by special factors such as earnings reports and dividends, ran sharply counter to the lower movement.

A mixed opening changed into a retreat before midday, but this was halted by a short-lived rally. For the remainder of the session, stocks dropped small fractions. The close, however, was better than the lowest points of the day.

Brokers felt a technical reaction from last week's upsurge was due, and they pointed out that Monday's volume of 1,100,000 shares was considerably under the 1,800,000 shares traded Friday when the market was sharply higher.

There were a number of other factors considered marketwise. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated steel operations at 98.9 percent of capacity as against last week's 99.1, which brought a peacetime production output record.

After the market closed, Atty Gen. Clark in Washington announced the Government had obtained a court order against 18 leading makers of stainless steel forbidding them to fix prices.

J. T. Weir To Tell Underwriters Of Convention

G. R. Williams, Vice President of Life and Casualty, and J. T. Byrne, Agency Training Supervisor, have come from Nashville to represent their home office. C. C. Birkhead, Atlanta Manager, has invited the State Association convention delegates and the Board of Directors of the Atlanta Life Underwriters Association to join in honoring Weir.

James E. Rutherford, Executive Vice President of the National Association of Life Underwriters, will be principal speaker at a luncheon of the Atlanta Association today at the Ansley, and will also be a guest at the banquet.

Atlantans Land Oak Ridge Job

A contract for insulating commercial buildings at Oak Ridge, Tenn., has been awarded an Atlanta concern, the Munford Company, by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Munford Company manufactures rock wool in Atlanta from Georgia products. The contract, Pres. Dillard Munford said, is the largest ever received by the Company, and is a distinction in that many companies and many different materials were offered for the job.

DRYGOODS REPORT

NEW YORK—(AP)—The cotton textile market was slow Monday. Some buyers sought further 80 square print cloths at 19 cents a yard for first quarter delivery. Most mills, however, refused to sell goods at this low price with a level of 20 cents a yard a likely selling price by mills. Other sections of the market were quiet. The wool goods market was without a feature. Demand for rayons was restricted.

Coffee Jumps 1 Cent As Corn Products Up

NEW YORK — (AP) — Maxwell House and Savarin Brand coffees have been advanced one cent a pound effective yesterday. This is the first major change in roasted coffee prices since last December.

The increase, which trade sources said was likely to be adopted by other roasters, follows advances in green-coffee prices and a sharp upturn in coffee futures.

The Corn Products Sales Company yesterday reduced prices of its corn syrups and starches in bulk lots 25 cents a hundred pounds.

U. S. Cow Population Down 2,600,000--Borden Official

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—A milk company official said yesterday the Nation's cow population had been reduced by 2,600,000 in the past four years because of American demand for meat.

W. A. Wentworth, of the Borden Company of New York, said last year's milk production was 4,500,000,000 pounds less than that of 1945. He estimated the 1948 output would be two percent below that of last year.

Many farmers, attracted by high meat prices, have sent their milk-producing cows to slaughter houses, Wentworth told the opening session of the forty-fourth annual Convention of the International Association of Ice Cream Manufacturers.

Americans are not buying as much ice cream as they did in 1946, when the industry was at its peak in sales, Wentworth said.

SURVEY FINDS:

Airlines Need Safe Flying, Better Schedule

Safe flying, on schedule, rain or shine, will bring the airlines more passengers than they ever hoped for in their rosy-hued, wartime dreams, according to a survey of the air transportation industry made by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, investment brokers, and released here yesterday by F. D. Willis, local manager.

After discussing the present condition of the airlines, and how they got that way, the booklet goes on to analyze the means by which the airlines might reduce costs and increase revenues. The study points out that costs can be cut by eliminating free meals and through joint operations, but notes that the drawbacks to these reforms may be greater than the gains.

For many reasons, including the present rate war between the major airlines, there is little chance that airline revenues will increase in the near future, the publication explains. But, in the long run, "by 1963 at the latest," according to Merrill Lynch, "flying will be safe enough to satisfy the most squeamish, and reliable enough to satisfy the most punctilious."

Southeast Construction Shows 31 Pct. Jump

Investment commitments for building and engineering projects in the Southeastern States during the first three quarters of this year showed a gain of 31 percent over the same period last year, reports Ralph W. Hairston, Regional Vice President of F. W. Dodge Corporation.

Hairston set the total at $880,360,000. His staff reported 32,576 building projects reached the contract-award stage. They called for 82,420,000 feet of floor space.

In addition, contracts were let for 1,696 heavy engineering projects costing $225,397,000 against 1,673 projects calling for $169,328,000 in the first nine months of 1947.

Educational and science building contracts showed an upsurge of more than 100 percent. Contracts for hospitals and institutional buildings totaled $19,010,000 compared with $9,825,000 last year.

Residential awards totaled $346,785,000, an increase of 19 percent. A significant increase in single family dwellings for owners' occupancy was reported. The average building cost, exclusive of land, was reported at being $11,450 for homes built under owners' orders.

A sharp increase in contracts awarded for projects classified as publicly owned was noted.

Hudson Girds for Return Of Competitive Selling

Hudson is preparing its dealers for the return of real competition in the automobile business, says George H. Pratt, Vice President in charge of sales.

More new Hudson cars have been delivered to retail customers this year than in any like period since the end of the war, Pratt told Hudson dealers from five states at an Atlanta zone meeting yesterday in the Biltmore.

Pratt said Hudson's sales organization must be ready to sell aggressively and competitively. One of the best ways to assure a good future market, he said, is to treat prospects and customers even better than they expect.

Hudson got set for competitive selling last August when the Hudson Sales Corporation enlarged its direct dealer operation and opened nine new zone offices and parts depots. These zones, staffed by seasoned Hudson men, place Hudson in a strong position to do battle, he said.

Pratt said Hudson's newest model, the convertible brougham, got an enthusiastic reception from the public and press when it was previewed recently. Its reception was particularly gratifying, he said, since more emphasis was placed on this model than on any previous Hudson convertible, and its tooling cost alone exceeds that of an entire line in some prewar years.

Participating in the meeting with Pratt were Walter S. Milton, director of service; Robert W. Straughn, merchandising manager; C. H. Calhoun, Eastern Division sales manager, and Claude C. Daley, Jr., Atlanta zone manager. Attending were dealers from Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, North Central Florida and a portion of Tennessse.

New England Textilist Cites Dixie Challenge

BOSTON—(AP)—Gilbert Verney, President of the Verney Textile Corporation, said last night that "Southern competition" faces New England mills with a "serious challenge" for their future.

Verney said he had no magic formula for New England's old problem of textile mill shutdowns, but he called for relief from federal taxation for New England utilities and asked Northern communities to "meet the tax advantages offered by their Southern competitors."

He spoke on the eve of a Senate subcommittee's hearing aimed at saving jobs for 2,500 workers in Nashua, N. H., where Textron, Inc., has announced it would close one of its two mills there at the end of the year.

Verney said that some costs such as raw materials and outside processing would be "roughly the same" in North and South, but he listed these primary costs as higher in the North—freight, fuel, light and power, wages and salaries, and state and local taxes.

Electric power, Verney said, costs New England mills about twice as much as some Southern competitors because of federally controlled and untaxed generating units in the South.

Verney declared "prevailing wages paid in the South are lower than those prevailing here—by almost 10 percent."

He reported some Southern communities "offer as much as 10 years' freedom from taxes, and New England must meet this competition. . . ."

Southern Bell Asks Rate Hike For Florida

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company is seeking permission for a 9 percent increase in rates in Florida.

In an application filed yesterday with the State Railroad and Public Utilities Commission at Tallahassee, the Company said that its proposed new rate schedule for Florida would add 50 cents per month to the present monthly charge of $2.15 for business telephones and from 25 to 50 cents per month to home phone bills. It also asked for a slight increase on long distance tolls within the State.

The new application comes on the heels of a successful court flight for a similar rate increase in Georgia.

Among its purposes are the development of date essential to the Real Estate Broker, the promotion of sound practices and cooperation in the exchange of listings and in serving clients.

STRAWS IN WIND—This Fall's bumper crops will end the fast climb of food prices since the end of the war, Factory Management and Maintenance magazine predicts, seeing a slow decline in 1949. . . . To demonstrate the principles of atomic energy to the laymen, Westinghouse scientists have built an "atomic motor." Seven copper spheres on a plastic wheel are driven by the 200,000-volt charge of a model atom-smasher at speeds up to 100 revolutions a minute. . . . Plans for placement of U. S. industries underground are being abandoned as not economically feasible according to present indications, Engineering News-Record Magazine reports. It might be cheaper, the article adds to maintain an air force capable of intercepting and defeating attackers before they reach the American continent.

PLANNERS—Dr. Lloyd Raisty, senior economist of the Federal Reserve Bank, of Atlanta; C. K. Liller and Al Sharp, of Liller; Neal and Battle, Atlanta, and their clients, H. E. Glenn and Charles F. Lynn, of Columbia, representing the Research Planning and Development Board of South Carolina, are attending a Southern Association of Planning and Development Agencies meeting at New Orleans.

Earning Reports Show Profits In All Lines

Earnings reports from several corporations yesterday showed profits in all lines. But the decreases in profits as compared with the 1947 level outnumber the increased profits reported.

Capital Airlines earned an operating profit of $85,453.36 during September, President J. H. Carmichael reveals. In this fifth consecutive profitable month, the Company's net was $54,671. Operating revenue of $2,000,742 was up $47,619 over August.

Net income of Georgia-Pacific Plywood and Lumber Company, with offices in Augusta, reached $1,006,091 for the three months ending Sept. 30, President Owen R. Cheatham told stockholders yesterday. This was $1.34 a share on common stock after preferred dividend payments. Sales were $13,303,601 compared with $5,717,-172 in sales and $443,363 in earnings for a like period in 1947.

Corn Products Refining Company and subsidiary sales companies reported for nine months net income of $7,356,239, or $2.40 a common share. This compared with $13,092,582, or $4.67 a common share, in the same 1947 period. The report said the 1948 net is before appropriation of $1,350,000 for replacement of facilities at current cost. Total income for the period at $11,919,118 compared with $26,274,092 in that period last year.

Acme Steel Company reported a net profit of $1,660,269, or $1.67 a share for the quarter, compared with $1,388,194, or $1.41 a share, in the like period of 1947. It reported nine months' profits of $5,102,269 compared with $5,525,-044 for the like period of 1947, or $5.14 a share and $5.61 a share, respectively.

Anchor Hocking Glass Corporation and subsidiaries, for 12 months ended Sept. 30, reported a net profit of $3,223,30, or $4.11 per common share, compared with $3,584,450, or $4.62 a common share, in the preceding 12 months.

New York Cotton Futures Drift Lower

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cotton futures drifted lower Monday in slow dealings. Scattered liquidation and hedging were absorbed through scale-down mill buying. The lack of fresh developments in spot cotton and textiles and the withholding movement among producers for better prices contributed to the dullness in the futures market.

The Bureau of Census reported ginnings for the 1948 crop to Oct. 18 at 8,149,278 rnning bales which accounted for about 55 percent of the prospective crop. Ginnings ran about the same proportion of rate as a year ago.

Moving of Cotton Crop Topic of Memphis Meet

While the Interstate Commerce Commission called a meeting for tomorrow at Memphis, Tenn. on the problem of moving the South's bumper crop of cotton, reports of two large textile concerns showed decreased sales of manufactured cotton goods.

ICC field representatives will try to determine whether the Government should step in to regulate the movement of the 15,000,000-bale crop into the compress and warehouse centers. One or two field men will be assigned to each cotton producing state to report back to the commission.

Local embargoes have been placed by the railroads against more than 30 concentration points because of the arrival of cotton cars in greater quantities than they can be unloaded.

The latest such action was taken by the Association of American Railroads on shipments into Memphis. It also has a general embargo against Decatur, Ala. Elsewhere, embargoes have been imposed and lifted from day to day. But there was concern that warehouse space would be sufficient to handle all of the record crop.

As this problem was being thrashed out, Bibb Manufacturing Company, of Macon, through Board Chairman W. D. Anderson, reported company sales in the past year were down $13,000,000 to a total of $55,000,000. This substantiated reports that cotton consumption was declining, at least at the mill point.

And the Johnston Mills at Charlotte, N. C., yesterday began a week's shutdown. President R. Horace Johnston said yarn sales recently had been below production, with accumulating inventories. He said the shutdown would be used to speed up installation of new equipment. The plant has 500 employees making combed cotton yarns on 17,000 spindles.

1,000 Georgians Called For Pre-Draft Physicals

Georgians for the second time within two years face the call for induction into military service. This time, it is hoped, to insure peace.

Army authorities in Washington, acting under the new peacetime draft of 21 months in the armed services, have fixed the draft quota for Georgia at 250 for November, 403 for December and 500 for January. Quota for the entire country is 10,000 for November, 15,000 for December and 20,000 for January.

The draft for World War II ceased in October, 1946.

To handle the new draftees, Brig. Gen. Alpha A. Fowler, Adjutant General of Georgia, has established 163 draft boards throughout the State—four for Fulton County, two for Chatham County and one for every other County in the State. Headquarters for the four boards in Fulton County are at 100 Edgewood Ave., N. E.

Col. James H. Skelton, Acting Director of the Selective Service System for Georgia, with headquarters at 10 Grant Place, N. E., said yesterday the system already had started to function in every county in the State.

To meet the demands for the November draft, the local Boards also have directed 1,000 men to report for a pre-induction physical examination to Army Forced Inductions Stations in Georgia. Those stations are at Fort McPherson, Fort Benning and Savannah. Those who pass this examination, Col. James H. Skelton, Deputy Director of Selective Service System for Georgia, said, face possible induction into service the latter part of November.

For the December draft, he said 1,400 Georgians will be directed to report for a similar examination during November. They will report for induction the latter part of December.

Though he has received no orders for the January draft, Col. Skelton said he assumed the Selective Service System would follow the same procedure for that month, with the selectees who are to be inducted in January reporting for pre-induction examination in December.

"After a man is once accepted," explained Col. Skelton, "the Army gives him 21 days to wind up his personal affairs. Then he reports to a center nearest his home.

"In this area, the men are being sent to Camp Jackson, S. C., for 12 weeks' basic training," he explained.

Col. Skelton said the present draft age is from 19 to 25 years and it does not apply to married men or to veterans. The registration age is 18 years.

Since the Navy and the Marine Corps are filling their needs by volunteers, Col. Skelton said this draft applied only to the Army.

The Georgia headquarters for the Selective Service System is at 10 Grant Pl., N. E., Atlanta.

The battleground cemetery at Chickamauga Park near Chattanooga, Tenn., drew 274,546 people in the travel year ending Sept. 30, the National Park Service said in Washington yesterday.

COLUMNISTS TOURING GEORGIA FIND

Liquor Plentiful in Dry Areas

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Liquor flows about as freely in local option Georgia as it does in wet New York or bone-dry Kansas.

"If you want it, you can get it," a couple of noted newspaper columnists agreed here yesterday.

Lee Mortimer, Amusement Editor and columnist for the New York Daily Mirror, and Jack Lait, Jr., syndicated Hollywood columnist, who are making a nationwide survey of liquor availability for a national magazine, spent yesterday and Sunday in Atlanta.

Admitting their assignment of "drinking the evidence" was not unpleasant, the columnists reported they have had no trouble getting liquor—both bottled and mixed drinks—in Georgia.

It was "a little more difficult on Sunday night," they said, but liquor was available all the same.

Mortimer and Lait reported they have found more 12-year-old drunks in dry states than in wet.

"Where liquor is sold illegally," they explained, "minors can get it easily because bootleggers just don't care. In wet states, however, those with liquor licenses want to keep them—and they respect the laws by not selling to minors."

Mortimer said they had found "much truth" in an observation of the late Will Rogers:

"People will vote dry as long as they can stagger to the polls."

Mortimer is coauthor of the recently published "New York Confidential" with Jack Lait, Sr., Editor of the New York Daily Mirror. In his book—"a guide to amaze suckers from other towns and educate New Yorkers about their city"—he calls Harlem the "world's worst ghetto."

After his latest swing through the South, Mortimer is more convinced than ever that Negroes in New York and much of the North are "less secure than they are in the South."

"Harlem," he said here, "is filthy and terribly crowded, with 30 or 40 Negroes living in flats designed for one family."

Mortimer declared the "North's so-called tolerance is merely a politician's weapon to get votes." He said all Northern Negroes were given was the ballot and "a lot of talk about civil rights in the South."

"Northern Negroes," he said, "are kept down by low wages and gentlemen's agreements. Because of this, they are resentful—and ready for the first Communist organizer to come along."

E. RIVERS UP FOR DISMANTLING

It's the beginning of the end for E. Rivers School.

Fulton County School Board, in session at 2 p. m. today, will let the contract for the demolition of the 31-year-old structure which was raked by fire Sept. 17.

The Board will also award a contract for the construction of a cafeteria, library and five additional classrooms.

WAS DEAFened NOW HEARS CLOCK TICK

Mr. Beetch, Newark, N. J., writes: "Before using Orotune Ear Drops, I was so deafened that I could not hear the clock tick. After using Orotune, I can now hear the clock tick with both ears." Thousands now hard-of-hearing would hear clearly and distinctly again, and also get relief from buzzing, ringing head noises, clogged up feeling in ears, if impacted wax that blocks ear canals and pressed on sensitive ear drums were removed. Try Orotune Ear Drops as directed. They are safe and contain an ingredient especially recommended for this purpose. $1. (Economy Size—4 times as much—$2)

Light Up For Happiness

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

If your little household is not always sweetness and light . . . maybe that's exactly what's the matter . . . there isn't enough of the latter.

Miss Mary Webber, Cleveland, illuminating specialist with General Electric's Lamp Department, came to Atlanta yesterday to discuss lighting with Georgia Power's home economists, and to appear before the Georgia Section of the Illuminating Engineering Society last night, and remarked that many a family quarrel could be averted with proper light in the living room.

"Glares, strains, peering around in the darkness—all contribute to the general sense of ill-being and irritability in the home," she said.

No one has resisted good lighting more than the average woman, she said. When tall lamps acknowledged as the best methods of extending pools of light, you would have thought the engineers had suggested going back to reading by the light of the fireplace, there was that much commotion about them. Not until decorators gave them their stamp of approval did women decide they were better than the little cottage numbers they had come to love.

Now, many new homes are being blueprinted for architectural lighting, but that involves early planning and suggests less mobility for the furniture in the future. You can't move the divan every Saturday morning if it is made in a niche with a light over its head.

One of the best ways to pep up an old, dim room, is installing lighting valances over the windows. Miss Webber remarked that since windows are the natural inlets for light by day, it seems conceivable that they would look well bathed in luminosity by night.

One of the worst offenders to sight, Miss Webber said, is the tiny pin-point reading light pinned on beds, supposedly to enable one partner to read while the other sleeps. It's murder to vision, but it has one good point. The one using it goes to sleep pretty promptly, too. He or she's worn out.

A pioneer in the home lighting field, Miss Webber is responsible for 3,000 women choosing it as their specialty, and there is room for many thousand more.

The Atlanta Music Club is probably the most influential group of its kind in America, but it is one of the few organizations anywhere that cordially accepts membership without invitation. You simply pay your money, and walk out, a member.

Right now, $8.20 will cinch membership in both the Music Club itself, and its Membership Concert Series, which will open its season Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock with Robert Shaw at the Wesley Memorial Church Auditorium.

The Music Club, incidentally, has had housing trouble with its membership series. The features are chosen for a discriminating, small audience, separate from the All-Star audiences that crowd the Municipal Auditorium, and, unfortunately, the City has no municipal theater of the correct size for intimate concerts.

The series was formerly held in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's Club, and outgrew that setting, and moved to the Tower Theater when it was called the Erlanger. Now, neither of those auditoriums is available, and the Wesley Memorial Church Auditorium was chosen last year because of its shallow seating and deep elevation. Balcony seats, for example, are almost within arm's reach of the stage.

The Music Club, virtually a public institution, considers its offer to students for the season's series at $2.40 is one of the biggest bargains in the City. The Budapest String Quartette, Clifford Curzon, pianist, and Jan Peerce, baritone, will be later attractions.

PTA LISTENING POST

Mrs. Arnold Allen Retires As College Park School Head

For the first time in 25 years, Mrs. Arnold B. Allen will have time to care for her peonies at her home at 454 West Mercer Avenue in College Park.

And she will have time to chat and reminisce, maybe, with thousands of young men and women and members of the school set, whom she has steered with integrity and love as principal of the Benjamin Neely School in College Park.

Mrs. Arnold, whom "her children" respected and loved, has retired, and after a quarter of a century as a "schoolmarm" she recommends the teaching profession as tops to future careerists. "The children have given as much to me as I have tried to give to them," she reflects, and adds that working with and for the youth of tomorrow has contributed a great deal to her happiness.

As a gesture of appreciation, members of the school's PTA of which Mrs. R. G. Woodall is President, honored Mrs. Allen at a farewell luncheon at the school at which time she was presented silver bonbon dishes and butter spreaders. As the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Tarpley, Mrs. Allen came to College Park to take over her teaching job when the school, now a member of the Fulton County System, was a member of the Independent system. She taught at the Stilesboro Academy in Stilesboro and received her degree at the University of Georgia. She married Mr. Allen in 1939, and continued her work, plus teaching members of the third grade. She has been succeeded by Miss Neita Tanner.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Cecil and Harold Johnson To Be Hosts to Atlantans

The Harold Johnsons' handsome estate at Johnson's Landing in Jefferson County, Kentucky, will resound with the voices of Atlantans during the next two weeks, for Cecil and Harold have invited a group of their Atlanta friends to visit them while the Autumn foliage is at its height and the racing season is on.

On Friday, Elizabeth and Walter Sturdivant and Vincentia and Jesse Shelton depart for Louisville to be the Johnsons' guests for the weekend.

Margaret (Mrs. Wilkinson) Wagar and Esmond Brady will catch a Kentucky-bound train on Nov. 8 to visit Cecil and Harold for four or five days. They are anticipating the trip with the greatest pleasure, for there are few hosts to be found anywhere who entertain more graciously than the Johnsons.

Tatty Shipp Is Studying in New York

It's difficult to say who's enjoying herself the more, Dr. Anne Wagar, who is interning at Presbyterian Hospital in New York, or her good friend, Tatty Shipp, who deserted Atlanta three weeks ago to study interior decorating in New York.

And the beautiful part about it all is that the two Atlantans are living together at Presbyterian Center. Of course, during the day Anne and Tatty are buried in their work, but after hours they find many spare hours in which to enjoy the gay and cultural side of New York.

A Blessing in Disguise

When Frances and Hugh Richardson, Jr., left for the West Coast more than two weeks ago, they had passage engaged for Hawaii, but the steamship strike materialized just about the time they were to sail. As a consequence, the sailing was canceled.

However, they have not worried about missing the boat, so to speak, for they have had a wonderful tour of California and other Western resorts. They spent the first week at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, and enjoyed excursions to the Redwood Forests and numerous other places. Last week found them at the Santa Barbara Biltmore, where they enjoyed a brief stay at the Montecito.

On Friday they registered at the Town House in Los Angeles, and will see something of Hollywood and movie land before going on to Palm Springs for a sojourn. With such an interesting itinerary planned, they are doubtless not regretting that their boat did not sail for Hawaii.

HE WINS BY A NOSE

Perfumagician Visits Here

By YOLANDE GWIN

Pull up a chair, girls, and meet Val Voltane, the perfumagician.

The tall, dark and handsome Dr. I. Q. of perfume is really Armand Francoise Pierre du Bourbon de la Bojzane, and a representative of the famous Bourbon family. (Founders of the French dynasties, not the whiskey.)

Voltane

Suave and polished, Mr. Voltane is appearing at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady Hotel for a week and is making perfume. Not from the manufacturers' standpoint, but from magic. A professional secret, of course. Mr. Voltane, picks up the scent like a G-Man and, presto, the lucky spectator who calls for her favorite odor is presented a dram of French perfume. If Mr. Voltane fails to know the manufacturer, a one-half-ounce bottle is presented. He never fails, for he wins by a nose—simply because he knows the odors of 5,000 perfumes whiff by whiff.

The voice of perfume experience passes on these tips to the ladies. The blondes should wear a light, sparkling, clear scent; the brunettes should wear a heavy, more sultry type and look out men; the red-heads may try anything with equally fatal and fascinating results. Regardless of your type, if results haven't been too good perhaps you do not know where to use it. Behind the ears and on the throat always. Use it on your coiffure only during the evening. In the crook of the arm if short sleeves are worn and on the wrist with long sleeves.

In a mood of recollection, Mr. Voltane will tell you that he has been married five times, his fifth and last wife being a French-Russian who was born in China. One of his wives was Faith Bacon, the fan dancer, and one was Evelyn Adams, of the famed chewing gum family. It was Evelyn, he recalls, who collected perfumes, and perhaps, he muses, that was where he learned some if not all his scent!

European women are more conscious of perfume than American women. Perhaps, because they have more time to make the most of their glamour. The Atlanta women, he says, are not the most beautiful in the world, but they make the most of their beauty and smartness.

Mr. Voltane's tour is being sponsored by the International Perfume Association and the floral gifts as a part of his act are supplied by Weinstocks.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Landers, of Decatur, announce the birth of a son, Frederic, on Oct. 5. Mrs. Landers was formerly Miss Annie Laurie Poole of Savannah.

The only attendants were Miss Linda Puckett, as bridesmaid, and Charley Mason as best man.

The bride attended Louisiana State University. For the past two and one-half years she has been employed as flight stewardess by Pan-American Airways, Miami, Fla.

The groom attended the University of Georgia. At present he is employed with E. L. Thompson Construction Company, Baton Rouge, La.

Life's Tangled Web

By ANGELA BROWN

Dear Mrs. Brown:

When my sister married, my mother was brokenhearted, although sister was living in the same town. When my brother-in-law was transferred by his company to another city, which meant fine promotion, my mother became frantic. She sits at the window all day and weeps. She sobs and cries so much at night that no one in the house can sleep. My sister and her husband feel terrible about this. Mother makes my sister and brother think they are committing a crime against her, and that they will be responsible if anything should happen to her. I am afraid to get married, for if I do there will be no one left at home and mother says that will kill her. Is there anything we can do to make her see the light?

WORRIED DAUGHTER.

Answer: I think both you and your sister pity your mother too much. She is a selfish, neurotic woman who is doped up on self-pity and who gets pleasure, morbid as it is, out of tormenting everybody about her. I think she is trying to pretend that she loves you and your sister more than other mothers love their children, but she does not. She only loves herself. No doubt she misses your sister and would miss you, too, but she is taking a selfish attitude toward the happiness your sister has found in marriage and what you will find. The best thing to do is to give your mother a good scare. Don't tell her you pity her and that you worry about her. Tell her she is unreasonable and that plans already have been made with an alienist to examine her as to her mental condition. That should make her act like a sane person.

Dear Mrs. Brown:

I am desperately in love with a boy who says he loves me too. Somehow I doubt it. When I am with him he takes me for someone who has had no teaching at all. He asks me to do things I know are wrong. I want to do the right thing without hurting him. He said if I loved him I'd do anything for him. How should I answer questions like that? I try to explain things to him but he ignores them. We are planning to be married soon. Should I marry a boy who treats me in this manner?

Brown-Eyes.

ANSWER—If a boy loves a girl he respects her and does not ask her to do anything wrong. Don't worry about hurting him. Set your standards and stick by them, and if he does not like it, then let him go. If he loves you in the way that he should he will not ask you or expect you to do the wrong thing. Try him out for awhile and see if he changes his attitude. If he does not, I hardly see how you could have much love for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey Plan Annual Cocktail Party

Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancey have issued invitations to one of the largest parties of the season when they entertain at cocktails on Saturday, Nov. 13. The party, an annual affair, has been held heretofore after the Tech-Georgia football game, but since that game will be played in Athens this year, it is scheduled for the day of the Tech-Alabama game.

The affair will be held in the ballroom on the second floor of the Capital City Club, and will assemble nearly 1,000 guests, including a group of prominent visitors who will be in the city to attend the football game.

Mrs. Bruce was before her marriage Miss Margaret Ann Speas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Speas.

RESORT TO FRENCH

Westheims' Midseason Collection Reflects Paris

By MAYNITA GERRY
Constitution Fashion Editor.

They're as French as crepes suzettes . . . yet as American as buckwheat cakes.

Actually, though, they are neither.

They are Tillie Yuckman's interpretation of French fashions for David Westheim's midseason and resort collection of clothes, which is currently being shown in Rich's Specialty Shop.

Constitution Staff Photo—Pat Livingston

FRENCH TOUCH — Carol Holmer models David Westheim's interpretation of the French peg-topped silhouette. Of pure silk print, the background is black with brown crisscrosses, accented with gray, and the neckline, which plunges unfastened to the waist, is so manipulated that it looks actually demure.

The pale, pallid and pastel colors generally associated with resort clothes have been bypassed by Miss Yuckman in favor of richer, deeper tones that reflect the colors seen in the recent Paris showings . . . green, it would appear being one of the top favorites.

In addition, there is a lot of brown, ranging in shades from pale beige to raisin, plum, gray, both pearl and charcoal, a vibrant Napoleonic blue and, of course, black, with only a slight gesture toward pink, appearing in the scarf attached to a deep brown cotton broadcloth dress.

This dress, with its simple darted bodice and plain all-in-one-piece collar, goes moderately intricate in its interpretation of the French forward tunic which juts forth with restraint over a slim, straight skirt.

Distinctly Gallic in flavor is a black background print with a delicate modern pattern in brown, reminiscent (it says here) of Mondrain's geometric paintings, but you'll recognize it as a more or less "hesitation" plaid design, espaliered across the front of an occasional fleur-de-lis in emerald green. Did we mention that this is pure silk?

Most of the new silhouettes are represented—the Bell, the Lampshade, the Barrell, the Narrow Knee—but with a difference. For instance, the lampshade treatment as it appears on a black silk taffeta dress, does not reach from the hemline to the waist, as the French do it, but as interpreted by Westheim, develops in three puckered self-bands of taffeta, beginning at the knee. The skirt above is slim and straight.

On one score, at least, Miss Yuckman seems to have beaten the French at their own game of accenting the hips. Paradoxically, these dresses manage to accent the hips, but also to diminish them . . . quite a trick.

DAR Caravan Visits Berry And Marietta

Marietta unfolded all its damask dinner cloths and polished up its brass candlesticks yesterday to play hostess to 80 Daughters of the American Revolution from 32 States, whose pilgrimage to Georgia may become especially significant in the light of possible bequests and gifts to schools.

The DARs, led by their President General, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Bryne, of Brookville, Ind., have been on tour in their cavalcade of inspection since they left Washington, D. C., last Thursday in two busses and five private cars.

They were en route yesterday to Martha Berry School and will attend a dedication ceremony at Kate Duncan Smith School, Grant, Ala., tomorrow. The latter school is DAR-owned and operated.

Mrs. O'Bryne remarked that the DARs are picking up membership every day, benefiting from a resurgence of interest in citizenship. She said that nationally and locally the Society is emphasizing support of a strong national defense program, and every wise precaution in the interest of peace.

"We are primarily patriotic . . . a strong America is a natural stand for us to take," she said.

The beribboned DARs have visited Blue Ridge School in Virginia, Crossnore in North Carolina, which they aid financially, and drove here yesterday from Tamassee, in South Carolina, which they own.

Mrs. Young Harris Yarbrough, Milledgeville, State Regent, was official hostess yesterday, and Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Jr., Regent of the Fielding Lewis Chapter in Marietta, presided.

Navy Salutes Evening Gown For Waves

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Navy saluted the new social season yesterday by introducing the first evening dress uniform ever approved for women in the United States Armed Forces.

The sweeping, floor-length evening dress, like all other uniforms devised for Waves, was designed by Mainbocher.

The famous American designer, who was present at the Pentagon Fashion Show where the new uniform was previewed, explained that it will be worn by Waves and Navy Nurses at official dinners, receptions and other formal functions.

The three-piece evening dress features a long, slightly-flared skirt of sheerest navy wool. Topside, a white silk pleated blouse is worn under a short Eton jacket with two rows of twinkling gold buttons.

A wide navy faille sash around the waist completes the ensemble, which is worn with white kid gloves and a square faille envelope bag with one gold button.

Instead of the combination navy hat worn by women officers, the evening dress uniform will be worn with a small, pet navy diadem with faille piping and shining gold and silver insignia in the center.

Mainbocher said the dress uniform is meant to combine "dignity and distinction with femininity."

The new uniform, however, will not be worn by women Navy officers until a new dress uniform for male officers is approved by the Navy.

RUNABOUT—sailor cloche trimmed with grosgrain banding. A clean-cut casual to live in and love for its crisp simplicity. Black, brown, navy, raspberry, clipper grey, continental green. 8.95

Opening lead: King of Spades.

Disregarding partner's request in the defense of a hand can be excusable only if you are quite sure you can beat the hand your own way. And even then it is doubtful unless there is some feature about your hand that your partner couldn't possibly know. How many times have we heard: "I saw your signal, partner, but I couldn't see how it would do any good to lead a spade." For nonsense such as this, there is no excuse. Such a player would be better advised to say, "Sorry, partner, I just didn't notice your signal." Otherwise the player in question is guilty of arrogance of the first order. Just because you cannot see why your partner wants a certain thing done is no excuse for failing to do so! He knows why. That should be enough.

Today's hand provides a splendid illustration of just that sort of thing. The final contract was four hearts. West opened with one diamond and North made a very doubtful overcall of two clubs. South was unwilling to play the hand for less than game and quite properly jumped in hearts. A mere bid of two hearts would not have obligated North to speak again, since he did not open the bidding. North was undecided between three no trump and four hearts, but elected to make the latter call because of the weak spade holding.

The king of spades was opened and East followed with the eight. West continued with the ace and East completed his echo by placing the four. West knew that East could not be out of spades because that would give declarer six to the Q-J-10, and something surely would have been heard about that suit. That was the end of the party. Declarer won and led a low club to the queen in the dummy. The heart finesse cleared up the trumps and the king of clubs was overtaken and all losers disposed of on dummy's good suit.

West actually should have realized why East wanted a spade continuation, but even if he didn't he should have taken partner's word for it. The third spade lead forces dummy to ruff and the king of trumps cannot be picked up. When East gets in with the king of trumps he can cash a good spade before discards are taken. If declarer tries to circumvent this scheme by refusing to ruff the third spade. East wins and leads the fourth spade. This will be ruffed by West and dummy will be forced to overruff. Partner knows best.

Chinatown Tour

When Mr. and Mrs. North set forth on a Chinatown tour on their 8:30 p. m. show over WAGA-CBS tonight they scarcely expect to see more than the usual run of Oriental sights. However, you know the Norths, and soon they're up to their necks in enough mysterious doings to cause them to confine their sightseeing to the Staten Island ferry for the rest of time.

Navy Day Salute

A salute to Navy Day in the form of Admiral Halsey's favorite hymn will be the theme of today's Club Time Program 10:45 a. m. over WCON-ABC. The hymn is a truly beautiful one, "Eternal Father Strong to Save," and will be offered by bass-baritone George Beverly Shea.

Have You Heard?

Housing Shortage Dooms Hollywood Landmark

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — One of Hollywood's most famous landmarks will be razed to help relieve the housing shortage.

To thousands of World War II servicemen, the two-story building at 1284 N. Crescent Blvd., is best remembered as the site of the "Hollywood Canteen."

In the thirties, it housed the "Dominos," a club to which belonged most of the film colony's top actresses. Among members were Mary Pickford, Billie Dove, Barbara Stanwyck and Ruby Keeler.

Wofford Comes Up With Perfect System

In the past few years, for some reason or other, I had lost track of Wofford College. It wasn't intentional because Wofford has always been one of my favorite schools, if for no other reason that the name holds a certain fascination. It sounds like the bark of a dog, which perhaps is at it should be, as Wofford athletic teams are known as "Terriers."

But now I am happy to report that Wofford is back in National headlines—at least back in headlines. It seems that a brand-new system of playing football games has been devised at the Spartanburg, S. C., institution and, for the life of me, I can't understand why it wasn't discovered long ago.

There's nothing at all complicated about it, but it works out entirely to the satisfaction of everybody concerned. It consists merely of tying all games, thus eliminating football's worst evil—a defeated team.

To date the Terriers have played five games and tied every one of them.

Could anything be more perfect?

No Worries In the first place, this system absolutely and finally takes the pressure off Coach Phil Dickens. The alumni wolves cannot possibly howl about tie games, for, after all, Mr. Dickens' team is still among the nation's undefeated.

Furthermore, it eliminates overconfidence. If Mr. Dickens had whipped one of his opponents, say something like 40-0, the Sugar Bowl blues already would have been haunting his sleep, despite the fact Wofford in the past has been among those institutions which frown on post-season games.

Well, what about the fans? Are tie games satisfactory to them?

They should be. Old grads can attend the games without worrying about the score, tilt their elbows, yell their heads off and forget it. No longer is there danger of those post-game fist fights because everybody is happy, since nobody lost.

And Mr. Dickens can settle down, plan his future and live in the pleasant town of Spartanburg for the rest of his natural life without being haunted by those "Goodbye, Phil" signs.

Mehre Remembers We should have known all along that this Mr. Dickens would come up with the ideal solution to football.

He is the same Mr. Dickens who staged such a Utopian performance on Sanford Field in Athens back in 1936 for the Tennessee Volunteers. The final score was 46 to 0 and just how many of those touchdowns Dickens ran for escapes me for the moment.

And there's no need to check with Mr. Harry Mehre, who was the Georgia coach at that time. He still awakens nights with flashies of that Orange-jerseyed Mr. Dickens going by the Georgia bench.

In fact, that may have been the game which produced the original "Goodbye, Harry" banners.

However, if Mr. Dickens had only devised his present Wofford system before that game and co-operated in carrying it out, Mr. Mehre perhaps would still be the football coach at Georgia with an undefeated record of something like Won None, Lost None, Tied 110.

Anyway, you've got to hand it to Mr. Dickens and the Woffords for football's most progressive step of the century.

GAINESVILLE, F l a.—(AP)—Georgia Tech's cross-country team, defending Southeastern Conference champion, defeated Florida, 24-31, here yesterday.

R. W. Smith, of Tech, was the individual winner. He ran the 3.6 mile course in 18 minutes, 52 seconds.

Trippi 2d Best NFL Runner

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Veteran pro gridders still dominate National Football League statistics today, but a few newcomers threaten to crash the spotlight in their specialties.

Charley Trippi, University of Georgia All-American now denting NFL lines for the Chicago Cardinals, vaulted into second place in the ground gaining department. The hard-running Trippi joined the pro ranks only last year.

Green Bay's brilliant halfback, Tony Canadeo, continues to set the pace among ground gainers with 381 yards in 70 attempts, an average of 5.4 yards per plunge. Trippi, in 47 carries, has gained 320 yards for 6.8 average.

Steve Van Buren, the Philadelphia Eagles' top runner and last year's ground gaining champion, is in fourth place (264 in 86 tries) behind Elmer Angsman of the Cardinals (295 in 52).

Tom Fears, a rookie end from Los Angeles, has snared 23 aerials for 289 yards to lead the pass receivers. Last week's leader, Hal Crisler, of Washington, slipped to third behind Clyde Goodnight, of Green Bay. Goodnight snared 20 heaves, Crisler only 18.

The Eagles' T-formation master, Tommy Thompson, bolstered his passing leadership despite a shoulder injury that sidelined him for most of Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears.

But another newcomer, Los Angeles' Jim Hardy, bounded into second place over such famed aerial artists as Washington's Sammy Baugh and the Bears' Sid Luckman.

Thompson has tossed 92 passes, completed 53 for 666 yards—eight heaves going for touchdowns and only three into enemy hands—for a 57.6 average. Hardy has connected 40 of 81 times, gaining 495 yards and connecting for four TDs.

Thompson stands at the head of the NFL passing class on the basis of an inverse grading system set up by League Statistician Joe Labrum. The system judges performance on number of completions, percent of completions, touchdown passes, yards gained, number of interceptions and percent of interceptions.

Redskin Rookie Dan Sandifer, second in the kickoff return department behind Bruce Smith, of Green Bay, owns the longest single kickoff return—a 96-yard runback of a Packer boot last Sunday for a touchdown. Smith has returned 10 kicks for 241 yards, Sandifer six for 174.

Sandifer also caught the longest pass, an 86-yard heave from Slingin' Sammy Baugh that was good for six Washington points.

The Bears' Johnny Lujack, former Notre Dame All-American and another NFL rookie, tops the pass stealers. He's intercepted six enemy heaves for a return of 88 yards. Sandifer is second with five interceptions for 120 yards.

Joe Muha, of the Eagles, is still the NFL's No. 1 punter. He's booted 29 for an average distance of 46.7 yards. Boston's Roy Zimmerman is second with 41 punts averaging 43.6 yards.

WOULD BE DULL

Ump Recalls Dispute Over Series Play

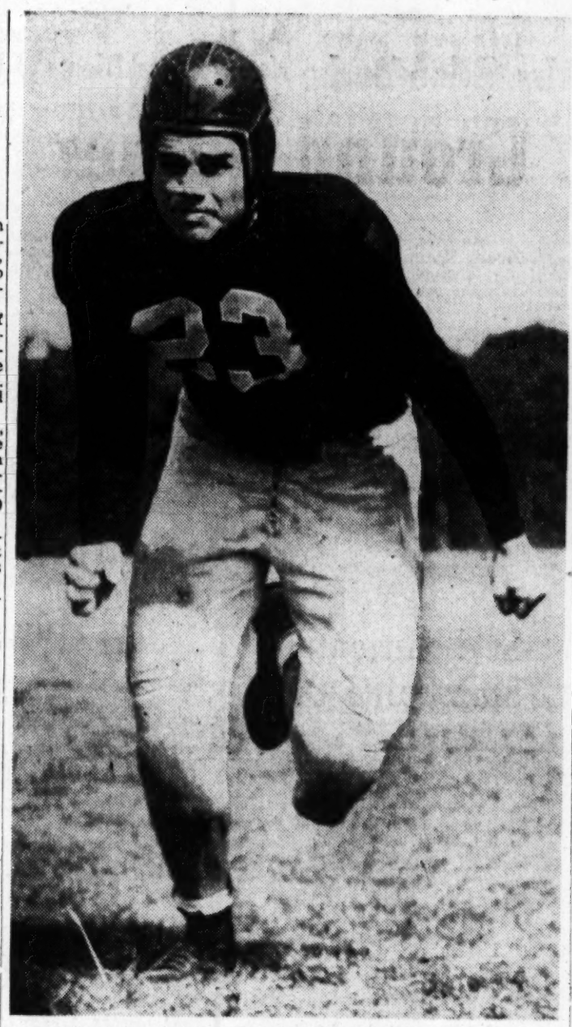

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(AP)—With more than two weeks to think it over, National League Umpire Bill Stewart mused last night that it would have been a "dull World Series if I didn't catch a little hell."

Stewart was referring to decisions he made in the 1948 World Series between the Boston Braves and the Cleveland Indians. One of them was the now famed disputed pickoff play in the first game which the Braves won, 1 to 0.

Stewart said he has umpired in three World Series and a similar number of All-Star games and until the Oct. 6 game had never been questioned about a decision.

What happened was that Stewart ruled Phil Masi, of the Braves, safe when he slid into second after a sharp peg from Pitcher Bob Feller to Manager Lou Boudreau, with two out. Masi later scored the single run by which the Braves won.

"No matter how I called it," said Stewart, "I was in the middle. Masi said he would have beefed loud if I had called him out. It was just a question of judgment. I was in the best position to call it. I have to make my decisions with trigger-like rapidity. I can't wait for photographs or X-rays. Besides, they don't always tell the truth."

TIDE'S TERMINAL GUARDIAN—Rebel Steiner, who handles the left end chores for Alabama's Crimson Tide, will be one of the problems Coach Wally Butts' Georgia Bulldogs will have to solve Saturday when the Bulldogs invade Birmingham's Legion Field for the annual battle between these two SEC rivals.

Bulldogs Launch Drills For Battle With 'Bama

By BOB CHRISTIAN

ATHENS—Football fans who pack Legion Field Saturday afternoon for the thirty-fourth meeting between Georgia and Alabama will be watching a Georgia Bulldog who has just about surpassed everything Harry Gilmer did in four years for the Crimson Tide.

In Friday night's game against Miami, Quarterback John Rauch completed eight of 14 passes to better the four-year completion record of Gilmer. With five games remaining in his college career, the Georgia pass master has hit 220 of his 425 tosses, while Gilmer made good on 215 occasions. The Tide ace threw 407 times.

Rauch also has gone ahead of Gilmer in passing yardage statistics. He has amassed 3,441 yards, some 578 more than the Alabama All-American ran up.

Coach Wally Butts' No. 1 chunker has thrown 31 touchdowns, two more than his arch rival for three years. Gilmer's interception record is safe against Rauch, though he had but 22 tosses to fall in enemy hands in four years, while Rauch already has experienced the feeling 27 times.

Yesterday afternoon Coach Butts put 18 of his regulars in sweat clothes for a light drill, then threw the remainder of the squad against the freshmen in an offensive scrimmage that lasted until darkness had settled heavily on the Ag hill field.

By beginning the rough work a day earlier than usual, the Georgia mentor hopes to have as many reserves as possible ready for the Tide.

Billy Mixon, sophomore halfback who turned in a neat varsity debut against Miami, was the only red shirt to gain consistently. He ripped off several nice runs in the workout that lasted so long managers had to stripe the ball with adhesive tape in order that it could be seen.

As a whole the running attack was much more effective yesterday than the aerial game. Not only were passers getting off bad throws, but reception was nothing to brag about.

Under such conditions Butts hopes the Bulldogs get all of the mistakes out of their systems before Saturday because Scout Ralph Jordan didn't bring any smiles with his scouting report from the Alabama-Mississippi State game.

Jordan said that the red-shirted boys from Tuscaloosa snapped back in grand style after losing by two touchdowns to Tennessee the week before. He added, "Red Drew has one of the finest tackling ball clubs I have seen in a long time." Several of the Tide were singled out for their performances in Saturday's 10-7 win over the Maroons.

The big problem for the Georgia coaches this week will be setting a defense to stop Bill Cadenhead and Red Noonan. Cadenhead, a 175-pound junior, is one of the top runners in the conference, with an average somewhere around eight yards per try this Fall.

Short Signals—When Cliff Hopp intercepted a Miami pass and ran it 51 yards for a touchdown, it was his first varsity score. . . . Joe Geri, senior halfback, moved in the conference scoring leadership when he rammed over for a touchdown and added six extra points to give him a total of 41 points, 17 of them being "one pointers." . . . Rebel Steiner, junior end for Alabama, is a brother of Godfrey Steiner, former Bulldog gridder and a member of Pete Tarpley's Georgia boxing team last Winter. . . . Tide Flankman Jim Cain is one of the few remaining members of the undefeated 1945 Rose Bowl team.

STORY OF A PREMONITION AND COURAGE

Dodd Had Just Warned Jackets About Getting Behind--and They Did

By GEORGE TISINGER

The thing next best to the final score that happened to Georgia Tech last Saturday against Florida was that the Jackets found out they could be had, according to Coach Bobby Dodd. They also found out they have the stuff to come from behind and go on and win.

And thereupon hangs a tale.

In the last-minute locker room meeting between coaches and players last Saturday just before they went out into the glare of the arena, Coach Dodd made a little speech. It went something like this, though this is not a direct quotation:

"Listen, fellows. In every game up to now you have scored first and they have been quick and comparatively easy. Up to now you have never been behind.

"But some day, mind you, you may find yourselves behind in a game, and it is only then that you will find out if you have the stuff of which champions are made. Only then will you know if you have what it takes to come from behind and go on and win!"

This is a direct quotation:

"About five minutes later I thought maybe they had decided to test me out," Dodd said.

That was when the battling Gators found a leak in the Tech line and smashed into it for successive gains and a touchdown and Georgia Tech found herself behind for the first time in a long time and feeling none too good in the role.

"A little while later I thought they had decided to test me out twice," Dodd continued. "That was when we fumbled on our 28 and Florida recovered."

And though the Yellow Jackets found themselves behind, 7-0, at the end of the first quarter they did come from behind and they went on to smash out a convincing football victory.

But almost of equal importance is the fact that Georgia Tech found out Saturday they had that inner something which a champion must have. They know inside that when the chips are over in front of the other guy they can still move things back in their favor. You might call it a psychological salting down. And it was worth it, in the opinion of the coaches.

One other bright spot in the Tech camp is the fact that just about once a week Tech comes up with another halfback who finds out about himself.

One of the first to come through with improved play was the mighty atom, Jimmy Jordan. He has turned into the doggondest blocker and tackler you ever saw for his gnat-weight size.

And last week against the Gators two more halfbacks showed the stuff of which they are made, Dodd said. It was in that game that Ramblin' Red Patton hit his stride. He passed a beauty also, they say. And the Bobby North, of Old Tech High, rode high, wide and handsome once again.

"We are hapy as we can be over the way both North and Patton played," Dodd said. "They really looked good. It looks like we find a fine halfback just about every week and right now I don't think I could choose between four or five left halfbacks on our team."

The Jackets took a pretty serious Monday afternoon workout. They were clad in all their white gear with the exception of shoulder pads as they are going to wear white all over next Saturday up in Duke's Durham. It's gotten to be some sort of tradition. For the last two times they have been to Durham they have worn all white and each time have given a good account of themselves.

This psychology must be terrific.

Nobody got hurt badly against Florida. The major blows were felt by North, who hurt his right arm on a tackle, and Guard Ewell Pope, who got a bad bruise down in the line. Both are expected to play in Durham.

AUBURN COACH DOESN'T BELIEVE IN MORAL WINS

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(AP) Auburn Coach Earl Brown came up with a somewhat amazing assertion yesterday that he doesn't believe in moral victories, even for his own team.

He gave that as one reason for refusing to criticize officials who called back a touchdown in the Auburn-Tulane game Saturday.

"I don't believe in moral victories," he told the Quarterback Club. "We lost to Tulane and I have no public criticism to make of the officiating."

Auburn's fleet-footed Jock Norton got away on an 87-yard touchdown jaunt which would have put his team ahead of Tulane 12-7. An official held that he stepped out of bounds. Tulane went on to win 21 to 6.

Razorbacks' Scott Having Banner Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Arkansas has lost two of its first five football games, but Clyde (Smackover) Scott is having his greatest season yet.

No team has been able to stop the Razorbacks' hurdling halfback completely, although he's a marked man every Saturday afternoon.

Scott, probably the nation's fastest gridder (he's tied the world record in the 100-yard dash), has run with the ball 63 times for a net gain of 500 yards and has completed six of 14 passes for another 103.

That's an average of nearly eight yards every time he's touched the ball and a terrific accomplishment when you consider that Arkansas' opponents have tried as many special defenses against Scotty as big league baseball teams did against Ted Williams.

THE PREPARADE

Waller's Wallop Waylays 'Wolves'

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

It was just a bit over a year ago that phlegmatic and smug railbirds, sitting idly on the sidelines with others of their ilk, were sniffing up their noses as they asked no one in particular one of those $64 questions: "Who the heck is Charlie Waller?"

We'll give you the answer before we explain the implication. The tardy, but correct, reply is: "A darn good football coach."

The answer has become quite obvious since the question was asked, although at the time it was not intended to be a question that was seeking an answer. It was instead a snide suggestion and implication that Decatur's days of football greatness were at an end now that the school must depend on so callow a youth as Charlie Waller seemed to be to lead its grid gladiators into the arena for their weekly battles.

It wasn't that the kibitzers had anything against Waller—it was just that they had grown fat and sassy on the splendid "home cooking" through the years of such excellent grid chefs as "Smoky Joe" Martin, Bill Badgett and Lewis Woodruff, and they were not too desirous of turning their appetites for good football over to the whims and mixmastering of this untried and virtually unknown young man suddenly entrusted with the job.

The railbirds, looking as wise as a hoot owl is supposed to look, could and did conjure up mind pictures of Decatur's grid empire, now at its peak of greatness, crumbling in ruins at their feet now that Woodruff had been called up to greater things by Georgia Tech.

The Bulldogs, under Woodruff, had been the jaunty wearers of the conference crown for two straight years. None had been able to cope with the thunder and mercury in the heels of the flying Moose (Miller) on the loose nor the magic in the throwing arm of Auburn Lambeth.

Poor, Poor Decatur!

What was to happen in 1947 now that Woodruff was gone? The Mighty Moose was gone, too, first to Cornell, then to Georgia Tech and then back to Cornell. Lambeth also would be missing. Poor poor Decatur! All its stars gone and now this young fellow who helped Woodruff in 1946 for his only coaching experience was going to put on the shoes of the head man. Poor, poor Decatur So they thought.

Everyone thought the end had come; everyone said so. The coaches themselves, in one of those stupid preseason polls, even picked West Fulton as the team to beat for the title. (Almost everyone did). Decatur, despite two titles in a row, was rated well down.

Undismayed Mr. Waller paid the "experts" little heed. He figured he knew a little football himself. After all he had been quite a halfback for Griffin High and Middle Georgia College. The slim 160 pounder had been a good halfback and guard at Oglethorpe and in his last football year (1941) even won a trophy as the Stormy Petrels' best blocker. He was in the service from 1942 until November of 1945, but now he was back with his first love—sports—and he had his chance to prove he could coach.

How well he can coach is making history at Decatur Boys High and making the railbirds eat their words of not so many months ago. Waller's 1947 team was one of the scourge's of North Georgia, winning eight, losing only to Griffin, 21-7, and tying Gainesville, the team his Bulldogs shared the crown with. He took time out from Spring football to coach the Bulldogs to a State Class AA championship in baseball and then went back to worrying about many 1947 stars who were being graduated.

Gets Ace in Weaver

Came this Fall and young Charles, finding himself without an assistant coach, solicitated the aid of another young fellow who had been a teacher at Decatur the year before. Getting Otis Weaver to tutor the guards and tackles has proved another master stroke.

Weaver, a lifelong friend of Charlie's, was a brilliant end some years ago at Griffin High and later at GMC and Presbyterian College where he was team captain his last year. He then served a three-year hitch with the Marines before coming to Decatur. Already he has proved that he has the knack of doing a terrific job of football coaching.

The great strength of the Decatur forewall, almost completely devoid of capable reserves, has been one of the big surprises of the year as the team marched to six straight victories, amassing 139 points to 21 for the enemy.

Decatur may fall yet, possibly to powerful Griffin this weekend, but a modest young man with a flaming spirit already has penned a pungent answer to his caustic critics who sarcastically asked: "Who the heck is Charlie Waller?"

Few Present As Ruth Is Buried in N. Y.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Under gray, weeping skies, the body of Babe Ruth was laid in its final resting place yesterday.

Only a handful of the millions of fans who idolized America's greatest sports hero were present as the mahogany casket with "George Herman Ruth" on its silver name plate, was lowered into a self-sealing concrete vault beneath the earth.

The scene at the Gate of Heaven Cemetery in Westchester County contrasted sharply with the funeral services August 19.

Then 6,000 persons jammed their way into St. Patrick's Cathedral and 75,000 more crowded about the edifice. More than 100,000 fans had passed his bier in Yankee Stadium for one last look at the Home Run King.

Yesterday only a few persons stood beside Mrs. Ruth close to the grave. Present were five friends of the family and Msgr. George C. Ehrhardt, Pastor of the Gate of Heaven Parish, who officiated at the brief ceremony.

Interment had been held up last August to give Mrs. Ruth time to select the plot in the cemetery's Rose Window section. The Babe's grave is only 200 feet from where former Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, rests. The two were close friends.

Cesario Decisions Frankie Abrams

McCoy No. 1 Tech Ground Gainer

By GEORGE TISINGER

Halfback Bob McCoy and Fullbacks Frank Ziegler and Buster Humphreys are the Nos. 1, 2 and 3 boys in that order in the Georgia Tech ground gaining department, according to the demon statistician and Jacket publicist Chick Hosch.

The report shows that McCoy in five games to date rushed 32 times with the ball for a net gain of 228 yards and a 7.3-yard average. Ziegler has tried it 37 times for a net 219 yards at 5.9 per try. Humphreys has slammed 14 times, netting 84 yards and a six-yard average.

Jimmy Southard, as everybody knows, is the main line passer with 44 completions out of 66 pitches for 693 yards. His running mate, Joe E. Brown, chases him with 11 completions in 18 attempts for 161 yards.

End Dick Harvin has caught three touchdown passes, Bob McCoy two and Jim Petit, Jimmy Jordan, Billy Queen and Jim Nolan one each. Petit leads in the punt returning division, too. He has lugged back kicks for a total of 146 yards.

Buster Humphreys is the top punting man with a 40.8-yard average. Ziegler has a 35.8 average and Joe Brown a 31.5 average.

In all, Georgia Tech has made 84 first downs, while allowing their opponents only 43. Their net yards by rushing is 862 to opponents 269 and on passing they have a record of 954 yards to other people's 360.

One spot doesn't look too good. The Jackets have fumbled 13 times and have lost the ball on 10 of them.

Southeastern Conference figures show the Techs leading the offensive list again with an average of 363.2 yards. Their nearest competitor is Georgia with an average of 296 yards.

In overall defense the Jackets are in the van, having allowed five enemies an average of only 125.8 yards.

'DOPEY' PHELPS IS DROPPED FROM KENTUCKY SQUAD

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(UP)—Dan (Dopey) Phelps, snaky-hipped University of Kentucky halfback, was dropped from the squad yesterday "for failing to report for practice."

Phelps had been Coach Paul Bryant's outstanding backfield threat. He did not make the trip to Milwaukee with the team for the Marquette game.

St. Bonaventure Star Ruled Out

OLEAN, N. Y.—(AP)—The Athletic Director of St. Bonaventure College last night suspended John Collins, punting star of its unbeaten football squad, from all future intercollegiate competition.

The Rev. Silas D. Rooney, O.F.M., said his action "was brought about when Collins admitted to playing baseball with the Schenectady professional baseball team during the Summer of 1948 after an outside query had instigated an investigation."

Coach Hugh Devore said the suspension of the substitute fullback "is really a blow."

"Collins is one of the finest, nicest kids I've ever known," Devore said. "He told me he just tried to pick up a few bucks to help his mother and dad out."

Stephenson, Of Army, Gets Star Mention

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK—(UP)—All-America football Memo No. 6: Just across the halfway mark in the 1948 season three highly consistent backs are marked today by the men who cover the games as standout All-America candidates.

They have captured the imagination of the pressbox brigade which tagged them with fancy if not completely original names—Slingin' Stan Heath, of Nevada, Dazzling Doak Walker, of Southern Methodist, and Charley Justice, of North Carolina.

To this group may be added Army's Gil Stephenson, of Columbus, Ga., a streaking fullback whose last three games have been ground-chewing masterpieces.

The prize backfield of the week, based on performances last Saturday, included Heath, Justice, Stephenson and Capt. Jack Swaner, of California.

Line standouts were End Dick Rifenburg, of Michigan, and Dick Wilkins, Oregon; Tackles Leo Nomellini, of Minnesota, and Clay Matthews, of Georgia Tech; Guards Paul Burris, of Oklahoma, and Marty Wendell, of Notre Dame, and Center Dan Dworsky, of Michigan.

Hays McKinney To Get His Car When He Scores

A new Buick convertible has been waiting all season for McKinney. It will be delivered as soon as he delivers a Tech touchdown.

McKinney, a five-foot eight-inch 190-pounder from Gadsden, Ala., thus far hasn't come close to scoring, but he tries. Last Saturday against Florida when Tech had run up 42 points and subs were playing out the game, Hayes dashwaddled back into the game—as a halfback.

He ran twice—down in Yellow Jacket territory, of course—and picked up six and seven yards, which is good enough for any halfback. But after those plowings he was too winded to run further.

McKinney retired, exhausted, unhappy and without his convertible. He'll be back, though, as a backfield man when he can be spared from playing either right or left guard. Coaches, players and the Tech student body know about the car and they want him to get it, besides it's funny watching him run.

Several months ago McKinney got on the list of an Atlanta Buick dealer for a convertible. For weeks he pestered the dealer to hurry and deliver until finally the dealer, a big Tech man, promised the car when McKinney crossed a goal line going in the right direction.

IN TD CLUB SPEECH

Brown Coach Proposes Grid Recruiting Change

Coach J. E. DeVaughn, of Brown High School, suggested that something be done about colleges signing high school boys during the season of their senior years, in a speech to the Atlanta Touchdown Club yesterday.

Coach DeVaughn and all other high school mentors in the Atlanta area were honor guests at the regular weekly meeting.

"I hope no one takes this suggestion in the wrong way," Coach DeVaughn said. "We are always glad to have the colleges interested in our boys and no one has done more to help us high school coaches along than the college coaches.

"But when a boy is signed to a grant-in-aid during the middle of the season, there is sometimes a tendency to take things easy from there out.

"Of course, there are exceptions. Lots of boys aren't affected by the college offers, but others are and it just creates another problem for us."

Coach DeVaughn praised the officiating in Atlanta and told of a system he worked out the other night with Marion Talley.

"When there was a foul, Marion pointed out the player making the foul and on at least one occasion I was able to get a boy out before he did something that would have forced the officials to put him out of the game for good."

Sid Scarborough was master of ceremonies and introduced the coaches attending. They included Hank Langston, O'Keefe; "Swede" Phillips, Bass; O. V. Bruner, Roosevelt; Cecil Moon, Smith; Vic Hansford, West Fulton; Claude Wills, Fulton; Les Fouts, GMA; Charlie Waller, Decatur; Roy Brewer, Hapeville. Several coaches were unable to attend because of other duties.

There were the usual game reports from newspapermen and officials and after the high school coaches and prep writers had been introduced, pictures of the Tech-Florida game were shown.

Tech Good As Any Team Duke Has Ever Played---Blue Devil Scout

Condensed From AP, UP and INS

Duke's Blue Devils heard a report from Scout Herschel Caldwell yesterday and then settled down to a gruelling week of work in preparation for Saturday's headline clash with unbeaten Georgia Tech.

Caldwell, Duke end coach, was definitely impressed with the Jackets' 42-7 triumph over Florida. He told Coach Wallace Wade that "this year's Tech team is as great an outfit as the Blue Devils have ever been called upon to face. "And Duke has butted heads with the best down through the years.

Alabama, fresh from that 10-7 victory over Mississippi State, started drills for the big battle with Georgia's Bulldogs in Birmingham Saturday. Pass defense was the major item. Coach Red Drew's men suffered only one casualty, a bruised hip by Quarterback Clarence Avinger last Saturday, and should be in fine shape for Georgia.

There was good news at Knoxville as Tailback J. B. Proctor was pronounced fit for the all-important clash with North Carolina. General Neyland is building his offensive attack on Proctor's passing and Hal Littleford's running in hopes of derailing the unbeaten Tarheels.

Back Charlie Justice, bothered with a hip bruise, was ailing in the North Carolina camp as Carl Snavely briefed his boys on what to expect from Tennessee. The Tarheels aren't taking this game lightly and the news that Justice should be in fine shape by Saturday was received gladly.

Tulane Coach Henry Frnka canceled a scheduled scrimmage when so many of his boys showed up with minor ailments incurred in last week's win over Auburn. However, Frnka said there will be plenty of rough stuff before the Mississippi State encounter Saturday.

Coach Earl Brown had nothing but praise for the showing his club made against Tulane as the Tigers took it easy before getting down for serious work for their scheduled tiff with Vanderbilt in Montgomery Friday night. Center Tom McKinney and Guard Chester Cline are the only doubtful starters due to injuries.

LSU, seeking to salvage something from a dismal season, took it easy, but will get down to heavy work today. The Tigers take on Ole Miss in their Homecoming game Saturday night at Baton Rouge.

BRIEF BITS—Texas has two left ends, Ray Stone and Ben Procter, out of action for the big battle with SMU, and Lew Holder, only other experienced man at the left flank, is bothered with a bruised foot. . . . TCU will be in the best shape of the season for Saturday night's game with undefeated Baylor. . . . Texas A&M, after losing six games in a row, learned yesterday that Halfback John Christensen will be out for the season with a fractured vertabrae and kidney injury received in the Baylor game last week. . . . Wisconsin's Badgers, with 10 men on the injured roster, watched movies of their game with Ohio State in street clothes. . . . Kansas State gets beat every week, but they take on all the toughies. . . . Their Homecoming foe this week—Missouri.

Geri Retains Scoring Lead In SEC Race

Joe Geri, of Georgia, and Eddie Salem, of Alabama, two boys who use their feet for something besides running in a football game, were 1-2 in the Southeastern Conference individual scoring race this week.

Geri ran wild in the Bulldogs' 42 to 21 victory over Miami, plunging for two touchdowns and kicking six extra points to bring his total to 41 points, and keep the lead. Of that number, 17 have been made on conversions. The Phoenixville, Pa., senior halfback has missed only one.

Salem practically singlehandedly beat Mississippi State, 10 to 7, for the Tiders, scoring every point—a touchdown, point after and the winning field goal. The Birmingham Syrian has booted 11 extra points and one field goal in addition to carrying three touchdowns for his 32-point mark.

George Balitsaris, of Tennessee, tied for first last week with Florida's Charles Hunsinger at 24 points, added one touchdown in his team's 41 to 0 rout of Tennessee Tech to go into a tie with two others for third. Hunsinger failed to score against Georgia Tech.

Seventeen players in the conference have scored 17 points.

Carnegie Tech Students Rebel; Pittsburgh Supporters Celebrate

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Football celebrations and protests had priority over classes yesterday at two football "deemphasized" colleges. Pitt's 21-14 upset victory over Indiana Saturday caused throngs of students to stream through downtown streets in police-accompanied motorcades.

But deemphasis was protested bitterly at neighboring Carnegie Tech, where the Tartans lost to Case Saturday, 26-20—their 23rd consecutive defeat.

Several effigies of Tech's President Robert E. Doherty hung from trees and walks were smeared with painted attacks.

The Tech President ignored their yells but later came out to talk to several hundred students who jammed his small conference room. "Some ow you have come to the wrong school," Doherty told them.

"We're trying to make this institution a place where a student can get a fine professional education. Unfortunately, if you do that you can't have football to the extent that you want."

DOGS OF DIXIE

By RUTH STANTON COGILL

The Collie Specialty Club of Georgia is all set to get in the swim with other show-giving Southern specialty clubs. The Club plans to have its first sanctioned match Sunday, Nov. 7. The contest will take place at Lakewood, in the Industrial Building, with judging getting under way promptly at 3 p. m.

Catherine (Mrs. Albert) Maynard will judge and give the nod to who does what and when.

While the show is a sanctioned match, which makes champions ineligible for competition—and no championship points will be awarded, there will be plenty of other interesting prizes for Lassie and Bonnie to take home.

For instance, cash. The Collie contingent has gone all out to place plenty of spondulix in the premium list. There will be trophies too and fancy ribbons galore. The Best in Show Collie gets cash, also Best of Opposite sex, and cash is offered for first place in every class. In addition to this, dogs placing in classes will receive a trophy along with a ribbon.

Any pure-bred Collie over six months of age can strut its stuff to the tune of dog show time Nov. 7. Entries can be made up until show time. For folks hankering to have a look at the elite of colliedom, there will be no charge. Admission is free.

For further information call J. R. McAuley, president, at CRescent 6104, or Mrs. H. E. Engram, vice president, at CAlhoun 4110.

PAUL HAMER, one of the country's best known and popular all-'round judges, has been awarded a signal honor by Will Judy, publisher of Dog World, and by the members of the Atlanta Kennel Club. At the Kennel Club meeting last week, Hamer was awarded a certificate of merit for having done the most outstanding job in the dog field in the past year.

The award comes directly from Judy, but some 200 members of the club picked the man. Paul Hamer, whom everyone knows and loves and who loves everybody and knows dogs, was also made a lifetime honorary member of the Atlanta Kennel Club.

BOB GRAHAM, owner of the black cocker Ch. and How, who rates to the tune of 10 best in show awards, passes on the news that come next week, the Graham colors will be on the circuits again. this time, carried by Weston Ben-Princess, a daughter of Ch. Benbow's Beau, recently purchased by the Grahams from Mrs. Helen Considine, of Chicago. The Princess is apparently as royal as her name implies. She needs only four points for the title, is about two years of age, and already has a youthful champion Cocker addressing her as Mama.

Walker Sets Torrid Pace In Southwest

DALLAS—(AP)—Durable Doak Walker, SMU's All-American back, is showing just why he has become the nation's most publicized football player.

Statistics of the Southwest Conference released yesterday by James H. Stewart, Conference Executive Secretary, reveal that Walker is among the top 10 in every department of play and a leader in three of the six.

He's first in punting, first in pass receiving and first in scoring; he's sixth in ball-carrying, ninth in passing and second in punt returning.

Walker tops the punters with an average of 38 yards on 10 boots.

Doak leads the passreceivers with seven catches for 228 yards.

Walker has rolled up 55 points to lead the scorers.

Clyde Scott, of Arkansas, was idle last week but maintained his leadership in ball-carrying. Scott has gained 500 yards in 63 runs. Lindy Berry, of Texas Christian, is second with 459 on 111.

Oregon May Protest Bears' Bowl Claim

SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—A storm may be brewing in the ranks of the Pacific Coast Conference today about who will go to the Rose Bowl.

With the football pennant race just past the half-way mark, it appears that two teams—California and Oregon—will go through the rest of the season undefeated in PCC play. Since they do not meet this year, that may leave the selection of a Rose Bowl representative strictly up to the balloting of the faculty representatives.

They usually choose the team with the best over-all record, which would point to California, because the Bears may be undefeated. But Oregon, which has done as well as all (and better than most) in losing to Michigan, 0-14, might put up a loud howl.

Ingram Asks NFL To End Grid War

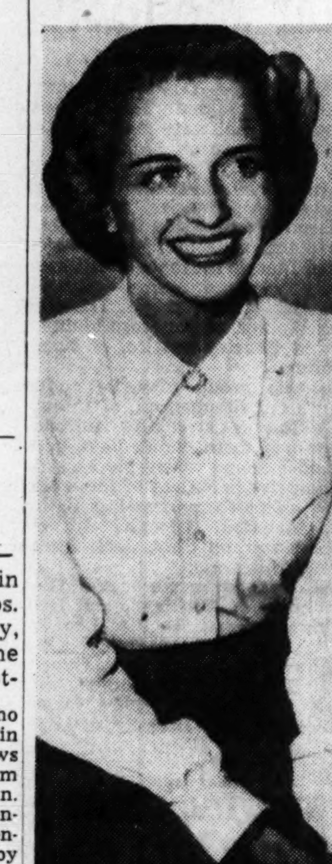

NEW YORK—(AP)—In a public plea to end the "war" between the two big professional football leagues, Adm. Jonas Ingram, All-America Conference Commissioner, yesterday invited National Football League leaders to sit down and iron out the problem of a common draft and co-ordinated schedules for the two circuits.

Speaking at the weekly luncheon of the Metropolitan Football Writers Association, Ingram said he was opposed to all kinds of war and he believed a peaceful solution to the problem could be reached.

Money or Paper

Mack Hughes, of Ball Ground, found a roll of bills—but the Federal Reserve Bank in Atlanta will have to tell him if it's still money or just waste paper.

Hughes noticed a hole in one of the beams when wrecking a house. He stuck his hand in and pulled out $125.

But the money was issued before the War Between the States. One bill was on the Bank of Augusta, another dated 1850 on the Bank of Charleston, while a third was on the Mechanics Bank of Augusta.

Your City Hall

By HERMAN HANCOCK

SANITARY FACILITY—City Council's Purchasing Committee yesterday recommended that Cheatwood & Company, of Atlanta, be awarded a contract for constructing a broom shed and a retaining wall at the Municipal Garage at a contract price of $22,829. The bid was the lowest among 12 others submitted to the Committee. Others ranged upward to nearly $40,000. The new structure, planned by H. Griffith Edwards, architect, will house the large mechanical brooms operated by the Sanitary Division of the Health Department. The Committee referred for tabulation bids on about $4,000 worth of equipment for the new City Garage now under construction.

WALKER ILL—Lloyd A. Walker, veteran City Purchasing Agent, is ill at Georgia Baptist Hospital where he is recovering from an operation. His condition is reported as good.

BUS ROUTING OKAYED—Residents of Southeast Atlanta have filed a petition approving a proposal of the Georgia Power Company to reroute the Sylvan Hills trackless trolley line via Gennessee and Hartford Avenues. The petition will go to City Council Monday.

UNLUCKY (?) THIRTEEN—Big wigs of the Atlanta City government yesterday kept their fingers crossed about whether Constitutional amendment No. 13, which will go to the electorate in the November general election, will win. If it passes, the City can issue waterworks improvement certificates up to 20 percent of anticipated collections instead of being limited to the present 10 percent. Under the new financing program, extensive waterworks improvements could be undertaken. The amendment is No. 13 among the list of construction amendments.

NO AUTHORITY—City Health officials yesterday emphasized that the matter of providing adequate heat for tenants is one between the landlord and occupants. There is no City law governing the temperature at which properties must be kept. Several calls asking the City to do something about what was characterized as inadequate heat prompted the announcement.

BIDS TURNED DOWN—City officials yesterday turned down bids to remodel an old warehouse building on Municipal Garage property for use of the Sanitary Division of the City Health Department. Contractors wanted $26,000 for the job, Stafford W. Graydon, City Health Engineer; R. B. Jett, Garage Superintendent, and Ald. Lee Evans said the price was prohibitive. They proposed that private negotiations be started to get a lower bid. Jett and Graydon will attempt it.

MAYOR'S DAY—Mayor Hartsfield yesterday conferred with Col. Mose Cox, Engineer for the joint Atlanta Bond Commission, on expressway progress, and with Ald. Roscoe Ailor, member of the Board of Zoning Appeals. The Mayor also attended a meeting of Council's Purchasing Committee and wound up a busy day by attending a meeting of the Atlanta Board of Fire Masters last night.

'CAN'T BUY RULE!

Dewey Scorns 'Plain People,' Murray Says

WASHINGTON—(AP)—CIO Pres. Philip Murray said last night that Gov. Dewey "by his refusal to discuss the great issues" displayed "his contempt and scorn for the plain people of America."

In a speech prepared for radio broadcast Murray declared:

"The Republican candidate has told us that automobiles are run by gasoline. He has spoken without equivocation in favor of streams filled with fish. He has firmly stated that the future lies ahead of us . . ."

But, Murray went one, "Government by platitude, no matter how pious, cannot substitute for Government by the people. Nor can the Republican Party, with its well filled treasure chest, be permitted to buy the Government of the United States for the personal use and benefit of its wealthy contributors."

750-Ft. TV Tower Completed in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (AP)—WMC, the Commercial Appeal radio station here, has completed erection of a 750-foot television tower to handle WMCT telecasts in the near future. It is the nation's highest television tower, the paper said.

The structure doubles the height of Memphis' 29-story Sterrick Building. It is located on Highway 70, east of here.

H. V. Slavick, Station General Manager, estimated cost of the tower at $96,000.

Officers Needed For Coast Guard

Young men from 17 to 22 interested in careers as Coast Guard officers may make application here this week to take competitive examinations next February for entrance to the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

Lt. Marcus W. McGarity, USCG, who attended Georgia Tech in 1936 and 1937 before his acceptance at the Coast Guard Academy, will be at the Coast Guard Recruiting Station, 10 Forsyth St. Bldg., from 2 to 5 p. m. Thursday and 9 to 12 a. m. Friday to interview candidates.

Graduates of the Coast Guard Academy are commissioned ensigns in the Coast Guard and are awarded B. S. degrees. Applicants for Academy examination must be in their last year of secondary school or secondary school graduates.
